BRITISH CRUISERS WAITING GRIMLY AT PORT ENTRANCE

36 of Nazi Crew Killed, 60 Injured in Blazing Battle, Which Took Place in Neutrality Belt.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 14.—(Thursday)—(AP) A 14-hour running sea fight between three British cruisers and a German pocket battleship ended shortly before midnight when the badly battered German warship took refuge in neutral Montevideo harbor with 36 of her crew killed and 60 injured.

Early today the German minister to Uruguay, Otto Lancmann, announced that the stricken battleship was the Admiral Graf Spee.

not the Admiral Scheer as previously reported.

Returning from a visit aboard the ship, the envoy said the dead included a lieutenant and the wounded commander of the ship. The commander's injuries, however, were said not to be serious.

First Definite Word.

The disclosure of the battleship's identity was the first definite word that the Graf Spee had been operating in the Atlantic. She, the Admiral Scheer and the Deutschland all are pocket battleships. The specifications of the three ships are identical.

The British victory was not without its casualties, however, for the British admiral in London admitted one of its three cruisers, the fast 8,390-ton cruiser Exeter, had been put out of action after four hours of the fight.

British Follow.

But the other two British warships, the 7,030-ton cruiser Achilles and the 6,985-ton Ajax, trailed the Graf Spee to her refuge and took up positions just outside the harbor.

Their grim guns, hardly cooled from the furious battle, were still trained on the little battleship which earlier in the day had attacked one of them off the coast.

(A little after midnight the German minister to Uruguay, Otto Lancmann, arrived at the port of Montevideo to arrange for internment of the Graf Spee for the duration of the European war.

(Anticipating such action by Uruguay, the German envoy arrived at the port to take stock of the damage which was sufficient to pre-

Relax! Take It Easy

Relax between the broadcasts of the Gone With the Wind parade and the Junior League ball.

Leave your dial set on WGST, which will broadcast both of the events, and listen to the Big Brothers program between 6 and 6:45 o'clock.

John Fulton and Frank Gaither will tell you how you can make this Christmas merrier for some poor Atlanta family. Mack Wooten and the WGST studio orchestra will play.

"Scarlett O'Hara" and "Melanie" in real as well as reel life, set their feet upon the red soil of Georgia yesterday for the first time when out of the air they arrived in a specially chartered Transcontinental Western Air skysleeper at Candler

Malcom, of the Atlanta police department; Olivia de Havilland, who plays "Melanie"; Producer Selznick, Mrs. Selznick, Vivien Leigh, who is "Scarlett," and Mayor Hartsfield, presenting roses to the new-born star on behalf of the city.

Opportunity Families Need More Support

They Face Bleak Year Unless Atlantans Heed Appeal.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Monday, a week is Christmas Day, Atlantans, and there is still much to be done for the Ten Opportunity families who are facing a bleak year—without your aid.

In fact, there is still so much that we are beginning to wonder what has become of those kindly Atlantans who in the past have given as much as they could to help the city's 10 neediest and most deserving families work their way back to independence.

Aren't there many, many people here in this city who have a little to spare so they can help such families? There always have been and we confidently believe there still are. But the small donations are coming in mighty slowly.

When we say that a family needs $25 or $40 a month to help it over a tough spot back to independence, don't you realize that your dollar, or five dollars, or your dimes and nickels, put together with other similar small donations, make up enough to provide "balance wheel" dollars for the family? There is great need here in our

Opportunity Five Is Tiny Family

The problem of keeping a 17-year-old boy in school so he can graduate is Opportunity No. 5, which The Constitution presents today.

The story of William M. and his mother is none too unusual but their strong desire to keep the boy in school is unique. It is an overwhelming ambition in this mother's heart to see her son finish high school, at least. Though he has but a year to go, it looks like he will have to drop out unless Atlantans are generous enough to care this year.

William's father died when he was a small boy, and Mrs. M. faced that problem with courage and fortitude. She made their living. It was hard work she did, year after year. But William was in school and every year his grades were high and his teachers told her he was an excellent student. William is ambitious. He studies and learns easily. In the summers and after school hours he gets odd jobs and gives his money to his mother.

She is out of a job now. She is not as young as she used to be (which is the polite way of avoiding telling a woman's age) so long ago. Mrs. M. is a good mother and comes from a good family. She hates losing her job most because of the hardship it puts on William. For, unless help comes, he must get a job now and support them both.

That is the problem of Opportunity

PRICE ANNOUNCED IN JOURNAL SALE

Figures Made Public as FCC Approves WSB Transfer to Jas. M. Cox.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The Communications Commission approved today transfer of control of the Atlanta Journal Company, licensee of radio station WSB and WEGG, relay broadcast station, to James M. Cox and two of his newspaper enterprises, Springfield Newspapers, Inc., and the Evening News Publishing Company.

The commission said that stockholders who now own about 70 per cent of the common voting stock of the Atlanta Journal Company would receive $1,826,125.

In addition, the commission said, Cox has agreed to purchase all of the preferred non-voting stock—1,175.6 shares of $100 par value a share—for $117,560.

Announcement was made yesterday that Cox also had pur-

League Committee Brands Soviet Russia 'Aggressor'

GENEVA, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The League of Nations leadership tonight put up to the assembly a bold resolution to brand Soviet Russia an aggressor against Finland, put weight behind the drive for Russia's banishment from Geneva, and even turn the league secretariat into a co-ordinating general staff for war material and humanitarian aid for the struggling Finns.

Stars Parade Peachtree Today; City To Relive 60's at Gay Ball

Starting Time Dependent on Arrival of Gable at Airport.

Famed Peachtree street was set this morning for its greatest celebration.

As thousands of cheering Atlantans line the flag-draped streets and thousands of others throw confetti in Broadway fashion from the towering office buildings, "Scarlett O'Hara" and "Scarlett O'Hara" will receive the ovation of a city of which they have become a vital part.

Atlanta's "Gone With the Wind" festival will be officially under way when Clark Gable and Victor Fleming, director of the film, arrive by plane this afternoon from the west coast. Vivien Leigh, the film Scarlett, and David O. Selznick, the producer, arrived yesterday.

Time of the parade of the stars hinges on the arrival of Gable's plane, tentatively set for

Day's Weather To Be Breezy

Windy is the weather forecast for today.

"It couldn't be anything else," bureau officials commented not too drily, from their windy, windy, perch atop the New Post Office building.

"Anyhow, it won't be too windy," they added. "Not so windy that hoop skirts will be unmanageable. Just breezy enough to lend a touch of justification to the puns that are going to be made all day."

Outside of the wind, Atlanta has been promised fair skies, and bracing, invigorating temperature. This morning's low will be a nippy 36, but bright sunshine will send thermometers into comfortable enough readings by the afternoon.

Most Romantic Period of Atlanta's History Will Be Re-enacted.

By WILLARD COPE.

With just a little eye-rubbing in bewilderment, and a catch in the throat for the more sentimental, Atlanta tonight will find itself back in the sixties, living again the most romantic moment in its history.

It is the night of the "Gone With the Wind" ball, as breathlessly looked forward to as was that other bazaar and ball which brought Scarlett into Rhett's arms for a glorious waltz and polka while tongues wagged of this shock to convention.

Very likely it will prove one of the most momentous occasions in the city's life, rivaling in significance the Cotton Exposition of 1881 which established Atlanta as an important metropolis.

Celebrities in every field, from politics to art, or vice versa, will be here, with their ladies—very much with their ladies, for the festive occasion is to be in costume, and the costumes for the most part are elaborately and appealingly feminine. Even the building—the city auditorium—where it is to be enacted will be in costume. The footmen at the entrance will have wigs, knee-breeches, and buckled shoes. Two hundred butlers, no less, will form the volunteer corps to clear the arena for dancing after the hour's program upon the stage.

Costumes, in a word, will be visible everywhere. Hollywood notables to attend, and to form a special show of

HEROINE OF FILM EXCLAIMS AS SHE SEES 'RED DIRT'

"Exactly What 'Scarlett' Should Be," Says Mayor Hartsfield on Welcoming Celebrities.

By LEE ROGERS.

"Look! There's that red dirt we've been working in!"

Those were "Scarlett's" first words as, seated between Mayor Hartsfield and Producer David O. Selznick, she was whisked away from Candler airport to her Georgian Terrace hotel suite yesterday afternoon behind a highly excited motorcycle police escort.

Eyes Flash.

Vivien Leigh, smiling and her eyes flashing bluish green in the late afternoon sunlight, stepped slowly from the giant transcontinental plane which had brought her to Atlanta for the world premiere of her first big-time picture, Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind," to hear the huzzahs of several thousand Atlantans.

"She's just exactly what I thought 'Scarlett' should be," Mayor Hartsfield exclaimed as he stepped alertly forward to present Miss Leigh a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the city.

"Melanie" Next.

Right behind Miss Leigh came Olivia de Havilland, who plays "Melanie" in the film, her brown eyes sparkling, too, as she seemed to be enjoying the reception from "Melanie's" townspeople.

Laurence Olivier was next to emerge from the plane, quickly taking a back place out of the spotlight. Mrs. David O. Selznick was next and then Selznick himself, laughing shyly and taking a place behind Miss Leigh and Miss De Havilland.

The crowd was cheering loudly, the newsreel camera was grinding away, the radio boys were talking as fast as they could, the photographers' bulbs were flashing—but all eyes were on Miss Leigh. All Atlanta present wanted to see what the girl who plays "Scarlett" really looks like.

The stars and Selznick were first greeted by Howard Dietz, M.-G.-M. publicity chieft who boarded the plane, but it was Mayor Hartsfield who spoke up first after the stars had set foot on Georgia's red clay.

The mayor handed the stars the flowers and asked: "Would you mind stepping forward a bit to give the boys some pictures?"

Then the newsreel men wanted

YACHT CAPTAIN SLAIN AT FLORIDA NIGHT SPOT

DAYTONA BEACH, Dec. 13.—(AP)—County Judge John E. Peacock today issued a warrant charging Early Christmas Bennett with the slaying early this morning of Captain Guy Russell, who was shot to death at a night spot just south of the city limits. Russell piloted the yacht Confusion here from Rochester, N. Y., two months ago. Bennett was arrested in the office of the Daytona Beach News-Journal, where he went shortly after the shooting to telephone a lawyer.

WAYSIDE HOME PAPERS GIVEN TO UNIVERSITY

GREENSBORO, Ga., Dec. 13.—Records of the Confederate Wayside Home, at Union Point, have been presented to the University of Georgia library by Mrs. Jamie Woolton, of the library staff; Mrs. Harold Lamb, Judge Samuel Sibley and his brother, Harry Sibley.

The home was one of the many used during the War Between the States to supply food, shelter and medical aid to Confederates on their way home or to the scenes of battles. The records include a register of soldiers who stopped there and a collection of newspaper clippings tracing the development of the institution.

WOMAN IS KILLED BY ROBBERS' AUTO

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Detectives investigating the death of Mrs. Ricka Thompson, a 64-year-old widow, concluded today that after her purse was snatched she was deliberately run down and killed by an automobile.

After listening to the stories of three witnesses, Detectives Philip Huls and James Lynch said it appeared that Mrs. Thompson was slain by two or more men whom she tried to stop after they had grabbed the purse last night.

Even Before Scarlett's Day A&P BEGAN REDUCING LIVING COSTS

A&P's policy of lowering the living costs of American housewives began back in 1859—two years before Scarlett's hey-day—with the purchase of a shipload of tea from China, which was sold in A&P's first store at 70¢ a pound below the then prevailing low price. This was the beginning of A&P's efficient and economical system of bringing fine foods from producers to consumers with unnecessary in-between profits and handling charges eliminated. Since 1859, A&P has brought fine Teas . . . and hundreds of other good things to eat . . . to American homes at low, money-saving prices. Thus, many of the foods you see in this ad, which once were considered luxurious delicacies, are the common necessities of today!

U.S. RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST SHUSHAN

Four Others Also Tried in $5,485,000 Deal.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13.—(UP)—The government today rested its case against five prominent figures charged with eight counts of mail fraud in a $5,485,000 Orleans parish levee board refunding deal. Court recessed when the case was finished. It had taken nine days for Assistant United States Attorney General O. John Rogge and his aides to question more than 100 witnesses and introduce evidence from records, letters and checks against: Abe L. Shushan, formerly one of Kingfish Huey P. Long's right-hand men and former president of the levee board; Herbert W. Waguespack, attorney and former member of the board; Henry J. Miller, accountant, and Robert Newman and Norvin Trent Harris Jr., partners in the Newman-Harris investment firm. They were accused of mail fraud in connection with $496,000 they made from the $5,485,000 levee board deal in 1936. NEWSPAPER, TWO EMPLOYEES FINED NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13.—(AP)

The Item Company, Ltd., and two of its employees were convicted today of contempt of federal court for publishing allegedly misleading headlines and stories concerning the Shushan mail fraud trial. Judge Wayne G. Borah fined the publishing company $100 each on two instances of publication and the two employees, J. W. F. Moore, night editor of the Tribune, and James A. Wobbe, assistant city editor of the Item, $25 each. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board says five times as much is expended for carpenters' wages in building a six-room frame house as for the next type of worker, plumbers.

Bidu Sayao Arrives for Concert And Thrills Over Attending Ball

Will Be Guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooledge at Dance.

By MOZELLE HORTON YOUNG. Charming and beautiful Bidu Sayao, Metropolitan opera star, arrived in Atlanta yesterday at noon for her concert Saturday night with Ezio Pinza, all excitement because she is here in time to attend the ball tonight.

Of course, the first question that was asked her by the press was "What are you going to wear to the ball?" In her very broken, but very fascinating, English, she told us that she will wear a gown fashioned by a famous Parisian designer. It is a heavy turquoise blue brocade silk, and it is printed with colorful figures of all sorts of cute objects, dolls, and dogs, and kittens, and Ferdinand the Bull, and many other amusing figures. With her lustrously rich brown eyes, and her lovely brown hair that she wears in plaits encircling her head like a crown, she should make an irresistible picture.

And Miss Sayao loves to dance! So she is looking forward to a gay time tonight. She will occupy the box with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cooledge.

Miss Sayao's dress for her concert is made by another famous style creator of Paris. It is of black taffeta, with yards and yards in the skirt, and with it she wears a scarlet sash.

BIDU SAYAO.

DAVIES MAY STAY IN UNITED STATES

President May Keep Envoy in Capital for Consultation on Hostilities.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP) President Roosevelt is considering keeping Ambassador Joseph E. Davies in Washington for consultation and advice in connection with the European hostilities, it was learned tonight.

The President discussed with Secretary Hull today the question of keeping Davies in Washington and has an appointment with Sumner Welles, assistant secretary of state, for tomorrow to discuss the ambassador's future work.

It was explained that the President considered it helpful and valuable to have Davies here since he is fortified with firsthand information on the European situation and that he was perhaps the only ambassador in Europe not assigned to the capital of a country engaged in war and thus could be spared from his post. As former ambassador to Russia, he is conversant with Russian and continental affairs. Davies himself added momentum to the "Roosevelt" talk today by asserting that a third term was necessary because the world was "on fire."

The senator arrived here from Washington Tuesday night. After addressing a district bankers meeting at Griffin last night, he will return and with Mrs. George, attend the Junior League ball and premiere screening of "Gone With the Wind" tonight and tomorrow night.

SENATOR GEORGE WELCOMES COX.

By The Associated Press.

United States Senator George yesterday voiced a "wholehearted welcome to Georgia" for former Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio, new owner of The Atlanta Journal and radio station WSB.

Since Cox ran for President in 1920 on the Democratic ticket, Georgia's senior senator has been an intimate acquaintance. "Jim Cox is and has been for a long time now a national figure in politics and journalism," said George. "His coming here is a matter of congratulation for Georgia."

The senator arrived here from Washington Tuesday night. After addressing a district bankers meeting at Griffin last night, he will return and with Mrs. George, attend the Junior League ball and premiere screening of "Gone With the Wind" tonight and tomorrow night.

HEADS G. E. A. UNIT.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 13.—Dr. Alfred W. Scott, head of the department of chemistry, has been named president of the newly organized University of Georgia unit of the Georgia Education Association. Dr. H. B. Ritchie, professor of education, has been named vice president, and Dyer Massey, director of public relations, secretary and treasurer.

TAFT MAKES A BID FOR NEW ENGLAND

Demands Balanced Budget, Elimination of 'Federal Stifling of Business.'

BOSTON, Dec. 13.—(AP) — In New England on a "good will" tour, Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, centered a bid for sectional support of his Republican presidential nomination aspirations today upon demands for a balanced budget through a 30 per cent cut in expenses and for elimination of "evil" governmental regulations "stifling" business.

In a series of speeches and interviews, he concentrated on those two issues and suggested they could be accomplished best through a broad study of government by a group of "practical" businessmen and administrators, including "perhaps some of these Republican governors who have done such a good job in their states."

Taft maintained that such a study would show where cuts from 25 to 50 per cent could be made in governmental departments to produce a balanced budget of between seven and seven and one-half billions, and at the same time consolidate or eliminate overlapping and "conflicting" federal bureaus.

No private investor has lost a cent of his investment in savings and loan associations insured by the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corporation.

ATLANTA TO DANCE TWICE IN A WEEK FOR NEEDY'S SAKE

Junior League Ball To- night, Big Brothers' Affair on Wednesday Will Aid Poor of City.

Atlanta will dance tonight for charities sponsored by the Junior League.

Atlanta will dance again Wednesday night for the benefit of the Big Brothers charity drive.

The work both organizations do or others have stood the test of time and met popular approval.

The Big Brothers ball will be held in the city auditorium, with Harry Hearn and his orchestra playing.

All proceeds of the dance will be devoted to the purchase of Christmas foods and toys for the poor.

Papers Sold to Aid.

In addition to the dance, the Big Brothers will sponsor a special sale of The Constitution next Sunday morning. Proceeds of the dance, will go to make Christmas a happy occasion for underprivileged Atlantans.

Requests for special Big Brother editions have been pouring into The Constitution office, the Big Brothers office at 251 Peachtree, and radio station WGST since the drive began.

Yesterday, employees of the operations division of the Georgia Power Company turned in $22 in advance subscription.

Choice Is Given.

Burns Healed By Repeated Transfusions

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(P)—Discovery of a new and more successful treatment for burns—using repeated blood transfusions—was announced today in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The treatment, developed at the Indiana University medical center, promises to cause a minor revolution in medicine for it gives an entirely different conception of what happens to the tissue and blood of burned persons.

The report made by Drs. H. M. Trusler, H. L. Egbert and H. S. Williams, all of Indianapolis, asserted that the theory of treating burns by spraying or bathing with tannic acid, widely used since introduction of the method in 1925, "is fallacious."

While still experimenting, the doctors were called upon to treat a 15-year-old girl burned severely about the arms, neck, chest, abdomen, and back when her evening dress caught fire. Fatal shock was prevented and the girl's life saved.

Haul out your odds and ends, they'll bring you a profit through Constitution Want Ads.

special edition either from one of the Big Brothers who have volunteered to sell the paper on the streets, or by placing special orders through WGST.

This is the seventh year the Big Brothers have worked to make Christmas merrier for persons less fortunate than themselves.

If you want to help them, if you want to do your part in making this Christmas the happiest in Atlanta's history, clip the attached coupon, fill it in, and mail it to the Big Brothers editor of The Constitution.

FORT BENNING GETS NEW ANTI-TANK UNIT

Motorized Battalion To Be Constituted at Post January 1.

FORT BENNING, Ga., Dec. 13. (P)—The Army's first anti-tank battalion will be stationed at Fort Benning after the first of the year, it was announced today by Brigadier-General Asa L. Singleton, commandant of the infantry school.

The battalion, to be constituted as of January 1, will be designated the fourth anti-tank battalion, and will be equipped with the army's latest 33-mm. anti-tank guns and motorized transportation. It will be composed of approximately 22 officers and 400 enlisted men. There will be a headquarters and three weapon companies.

Heretofore there has been but one anti-tank platoon in each regiment of infantry.

The nucleus of the enlisted personnel of the new battalion will be furnished by the 29th infantry, which, on January 1, will transfer 82 non-commissioned officers and 211 privates to the outfit. Recruits will replace the 29th infantry losses.

War Department orders recently assigned a number of officers to the unit.

Swedes Want To Aid Finns But Fear Germany-Duranty

Nation With Highest Type Civilization Boils With Indignation.

By WALTER DURANTY.
For North American Newspaper Alliance.
STOCKHOLM, Dec. 13.—(By Wire)—There is a statue of Charles XII in Stockholm—the last Swedish ruler who had been supplying conquests. Those conquests ended at Poltava, early in the eighteenth century, deep down in the Russian Ukraine, where the Russians beat that superb general by sheer weight of manpower.

The statue of King Charles stands in Stockholm with a hand outflung eastward. And behind him in this loveliest of cities shine brightly the Christmas lights, yellow, red and green, with banners of many colors stretched across the streets.

Noblest Civilization of All.
Stockholm in 200 years of peace has built the noblest and soundest civilization of any city in the world. And the people of Sweden are not far from cursing their prudent rulers who prefer civilization to war. Because today the Swedish nation is burning to aid its friends and brothers in Finland against one of the most unprovoked aggressions in history. But how?

Add to that the fact that not only Sweden, but Norway and Denmark, too, are faced by the menace of Russia and of Germany as well. These three nations, which have a fighting history which no countries in the world can surpass, today are almost powerless not only to help their friends, but even to defend themselves.

REDS AGGRESSORS, SAYS LEAGUE BODY

refusal to participate in League efforts to mediate the war with Finland and her "vain" attempt to justify her refusal by declaring she had recognized a "pretended" Finnish government, concluded: "That Soviet Russia not only is guilty of violation of one of the engagements of the covenant but has placed herself outside the covenant; that the council is competent under the terms of Article XVI of the covenant to decide the consequences arising from this situation."

The resolution then recommended that the council sit to consider the "question"—by implication, expulsion.

In a previous section the resolution specifically called the Russian invasion "aggression" against Finland.

One of the clauses of the resolution carried immense potential punch.

After urging the member states to do everything they could to give material and humanitarian help to the Finns, the resolution continued:

"The assembly authorizes the secretary-general of the League to lend the aid of his technical services for the organization of assistance to Finland as outlined above."

One part of the resolution empowered the League secretary-general to invite the United States to co-operate with League states in helping the Finns. The United States was not mentioned specifically, but in Geneva's official language the phrase "non-member states" is almost synonymous with the United States.

Allies Order 470 U. S. Bombers

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—Representatives of the British air ministry late today signed a contract with the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, of Burbank, Cal., for 200 "Hudson" bombers at a cost of "almost $20,000,000."

Scores of the same type of bomber, ordered by the British prior to the start of the war, have been used both for off-shore patrol duty and for leaflet "raids" over Germany.

At the same time it was learned the French air ministry had ordered 270 additional bi-motored bombers from the Douglas Aircraft Company, of Santa Monica, Cal., at an unspecified cost.

The French ordered 100 of the Douglas, described as having speeds "well in excess" of 300 miles an hour, prior to the war.

U. S. Ambulances Go To Finland

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(P)—A volunteer American unit consisting of two ambulances with crews left today for Finland via Norway.

Originally intended for use in France, the unit was sent by the American Volunteer Ambulance Corps. It included John Hasey, Bridgewater, Mass.; Robert Newman, Chicago; William Mock, Evanston, Ill.; and Frank L. Bartlett, New York City.

Nordies Eye Russian Drive

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 13.—(P)—Scandinavian countries anxiously watched tonight the signs of a great Russian drive through the middle of Finland and to the Bothnian gulf.

Although Russian troops were said to be fighting in the same relative positions reached in the first 48 hours of the war, northern diplomats were worried over reports that a vast Red army was being thrown into the drive.

Of particular concern to Norway, Sweden and Denmark was the progress of three columns of Russians.

If the three columns accomplished their objectives, they would face the Swedish border.

Prospects of foreign military help for the Finns, however, seemed no brighter after Sweden's new coalition government announced it shared a popular desire to help Finland but at the same time declared Sweden's neutrality one of its most vital aims.

Popular feeling in the Scandinavian countries, nevertheless, was increasing in favor of outright armed assistance, particularly in Sweden, where several thousand volunteers already have sought to fight with the Finns.

Invasion Halted, Finns Declare

HELSINKI, Dec. 13.—(P)—The Finnish army declared tonight the Russian invasion had been brought to a standstill on the Karelian Isthmus after a fortnight of bitter mid-winter fighting, and that fiercely attacking Red troops on the eastern front had been repulsed in most places.

New attacks by air and sea were turned back today, the Finnish command said, and the 800-mile land front from the gulf of Finland to the Arctic ocean remained substantially the same.

"Great losses" to the Red army resulted when the Finns counter-attacked successfully on the eastern front, just north of Lake Ladoga, a communiqué said. Many prisoners were taken, and five more Soviet tanks and four pieces of field artillery were captured. Other tanks were reported destroyed on the Isthmus.

Finland coastal artillery "annihilated" enemy forces attempting to force a way along marshy roads skirting the northeastern shore of Lake Ladoga, the communiqué said, and transport detachments near Saunainen were forced to turn back.

Polish Council, Polish Hour

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(P)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, the famed pianist and former premier of Poland, has been named a member of a National Polish Council, the Polish Monitor, official organ of the Polish government in France, announced today. The new council is to assist in formulating decrees.

Russia Recalls Envoy to Italy

ROME, Dec. 13.—(P)—The abrupt recall and hasty departure for home of Soviet Russia's new ambassador to Italy, whose 15-day stay in Rome was made uncomfortable by the jeers of young Fascists outside his embassy windows, was disclosed tonight by diplomatic sources.

The ambassador, Nicolai Gorelchin, left Rome yesterday for Moscow, before he even had had time to present his credentials to King Vittorio Emanuele.

Soviet embassy officials said they did not know why he had been called home. He left in such a hurry he did not wait for the return of his charge d'affaires.

Britain Hints At Land Blow

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(P)—Britain hinted today of a great land offensive against the Germans once the Allies have added command of the air to their sea superiority.

Lord Chatfield, minister for coordination of defense, indicated that British and French strategy would be to bide their time patiently until they were sure of themselves in all branches of armaments before taking the initiative with a carefully-timed big push.

The immediate Allied aims, he told a luncheon audience, is to retain command of the sea and gradually attain command of the air.

"Then when we have done that," he added, "we may have to win a big battle on land. . . . It may well be that on the army finally the brunt of fighting will rest."

The air ministry meanwhile announced British warplanes, trying out a new method of heading off German minelaying planes, made successful preventive flights under antiaircraft fire during the night over four of the main North sea bases. The ministry said continued all-night aerial "security patrol"

Leon Helfand, who is on a vacation in Geneva.

Popular feeling in Italy, exemplified by a series of pro-Finnish, anti-Soviet demonstrations by student Fascists, has been sympathetic with Finland ever since the Red armies invaded Russia's little neighbor.

Within four days after Gorelchin arrived to take up his post, 3,000 young uniformed Fascists stood outside his embassy and howled their disapproval of the invasion. Three days later, on December 5, carabinieri and other protective forces were called out to turn student marchers away from the building, whereupon the demonstrators massed in front of the Finnish legation, shouting "Finland, finish off the Russians!"

Soviets Claim 20-Mile Gain.

MOSCOW, Dec. 13.—(P)—A day's advance of approximately 20 miles further into Finnish territory by the Red army in central Finland was announced tonight by the Soviet-Russian army command of the Leningrad area.

Details of fighting were not given in the brief communique.

In the Ukhta (Kouta) sector, and the Red army communique, the troops had advanced 105 kilometers (between 65 and 66 miles from the frontier).

On the Pitkaranta-Serdobol railway line, along the northern shores of Lake Ladoga, the communique continued, Soviet troops occupied the town of Kitla (Kie-). This would put them some seven miles further into Finnish territory since yesterday.

A Soviet newspaper complained tonight that sharpshooters of Finland's white-clad ski units were resorting to the "use of bandit tactics in sudden attacks on our columns." The "bandit tactics" included skiing in stocking feet.

"The enemy does not engage in open battle," wrote the war correspondent of Red Karelia, which Bremen Ties Up At Reich Dock.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—(P)—The liner Bremen was tied up at the dock at Bremerhaven at 12:15 p. m. today (5:15 a. m. Atlanta time) it was announced officially tonight.

Previously the whereabouts of the Bremen was established when Dr. Julius Dornmueller, minister of transportation, arrived at Bremerhaven to congratulate Commodore Adolf Ahrens on bringing safely home the 51,000-ton German ocean liner.

Home after 14 weeks of hiding in the Russian port of Murmansk and wandering on the high seas, the ship was met by Dr. Dornmueller and other government representatives who went aboard where a ceremony was held in the grand ball room, the scene of many a gay trans-Atlantic party. Rushed to Lifeboats.

Not the least of the Bremen's adventures since she sailed from New York August 30, just before the war started, was her last day out when sailors rushed to their lifeboat stations prepared for a British submarine attack.

An officer of the 20,000,000 liner told the story today.

When a German plane, accompanying the Bremen, signalled "English U-boat sighted," all the crew except an engine room watch hurried to the lifeboats and prepared to abandon ship.

Commodore Ahrens ordered full speed ahead on a zig-zag course, as the German plane swooped toward the submarine, but, the officer said, the submarine dived in time to escape.

Tells Commodore.

Dornmueller told Ahrens that "England's command of the seas is broken. You proved that by this voyage."

Commodore Ahrens is expected to be received by Fuehrer Adolf Hitler in Berlin tomorrow.

Ahrens charged the Bremen was delayed in New York harbor last August because the "Americans wanted to help England a little."

"We were held 36 hours in New York by the Americans, who gave us an excuse that they wanted to search the ship for arms and munitions," he said. "Naturally that was merely a pretext. Personally I had the feeling the Americans wanted to help England a little."

Finns Reported Besieging Salla.

COPENHAGEN (Thursday) December 14.—(UP)—Heavily reinforced Finnish troops early today were reported to be laying siege to the strategic town of Salla, just above the Arctic Circle, where the Russians were said to have lost 7,000 men.

Finnish troops were reported without confirmation tonight also to have carried the war to Russian soil, striking across the eastern frontier and driving toward the vital Leningrad-Murmansk railroad.

The Finns were said to have crossed the frontier in the south central section in an apparent attempt to cut the railroad and prevent the Russians from moving troop reinforcements and war materials to the northern fronts.

The Finns, concentrating large forces in an effort to prevent the Red army from reaching the Gulf of Bothnia and cutting Finland in half, hoped to recapture Salla today, frontier dispatches said.

Salla is about 125 miles northeast of the top of the Gulf of Bothnia at the Swedish-Finnish border and slightly northeast of the town of Kemijarvi where fierce fighting was reported.

Against the Russians' reported losses of 7,000 men in the new Finnish counter-offensive, the Finns claim to have lost only 250 men.

Late last night the Russians were reported to be holding Salla, despite earlier reports that the Finns had retaken it.

At Kemijarvi, claimed by both Russians and Finns, the fighting was taking place 75 miles west of the Finnish-Soviet frontier at the terminus of a railroad line leading directly down to the Gulf of Bothnia at Kemi near the Swedish border.

Another Finnish counter-offensive was reported under way on the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad.

On the Karelian isthmus and at Finland's "wasp waist" Finnish reports claimed advances of several miles.

Swedish frontier reports said that, since the start of Russia's invasion two weeks ago, the Red army's losses have been nearly 20 times as great as those of the Finns.

Late last night the Russians were reported to be holding Salla, despite earlier reports that the Finns had retaken it.

At Kemijarvi, claimed by both Russians and Finns, the fighting was taking place 75 miles west of the Finnish-Soviet frontier at the terminus of a railroad line leading directly down to the Gulf of Bothnia at Kemi near the Swedish border.

Another Finnish counter-offensive was reported under way on the Karelian isthmus north of Leningrad.

MIDNIGHT MOVIE STARS KAY KYSER

Fox Offers 'That's Right, You're Wrong.'

Kay Kyser and his orchestra are featured in the new picture, "That's Right, You're Wrong," which opens with a midnight show at the Fox theater tonight.

After the midnight show, the film begins a regular week's run beginning tomorrow. The film is billed as one of the outstanding musical entertainments of the year.

Kyser and his famous band, with the vocalists who have aided him in his sensational rise to the peak of his profession, appear throughout the picture.

INCORPORATED

BOOKSELLERS

A sniper's bullet killed Corporal James Robinson Miller in 1865 at the close of the War Between the States as he stood duty in Petersburg, Virginia, and there he lies buried in a soldier's grave. Back in Wall-halla, South Carolina, his young wife, Elizabeth Eaton Miller, and his son, born November 1, 1861, were hopefully awaiting his return from the battlefields.

The little boy was John Marion Miller, later to become founder of Miller's Book Store at the age of nineteen years. Born into a war-torn world his earliest recollections were of letters from his father recounting the privations and hardships which were the daily part of brave men like himself fighting to preserve the Confederacy. "Gifts" made from parched corn; shoes which cost Corporal Miller one hundred dollars a pair were facts impressed forever upon the memory of this boy. And most poignant of all was his clear recollection of the mother which brought to him the bitter news of his father's death. His young Mother was left helpless with a child to support, and personal property which she was unable to protect from carpetbagger lawyers, was lost.

Age is not so much a matter of years, for John Marion Miller was only eight years old when Destiny brought him to Atlanta with his mother in 1870. Grief and experience had increased his stature. The Reconstruction years were hard years, but with determination this boy set out to make a living for himself and his mother by selling The Atlanta Constitution on the streets of Atlanta, a city which was slowly but surely emerging from the devastation made by ruthless warfare. Thus his young shoulders assumed the responsibility of a man.

And right then, a purpose was definitely formed in the mind of this enterprising lad—he would sell newspapers until he made enough money to open his own book store. With unflagging zeal, John M. Miller worked toward his goal. As he grew older he acquired agencies for the New York papers in addition to his regular work. In 1881 he secured the entire newspaper concession for the International Cotton Exposition, with exclusive privileges for the New York Graphic, then the only illustrated paper in America. This venture netted him six hundred dollars and his goal was reached.

On January 12, 1882, the John M. Miller Bookstore was officially opened at 39 Marietta St. in the old DeGue Opera House building. Thirty-four years were spent in this location. Numbered among John Miller's regular customers were such famous personages as Henry W. Grady, Joel Chandler Harris, Clark Howell of The Atlanta Constitution, and many other prominent contemporaries of young Atlanta. In years he was heard to say that he had "grown up under the coat tails" of these great men.

In 1916 Miller's Bookstore, later Miller's, Inc., moved to its present location at 84 Broad St., N. W. John M. Miller, honored and beloved by all, a true gentleman of the Old South, passed on February 5, 1937, at the age of seventy-five. Two sons, James T. Miller and Orme Miller, and a daughter, Minna Miller Hamilton, are perpetuating the business established more than fifty-seven years ago by a boy who knew what he wanted in life and was willing to work for it.

About Whom Gossips Whisper—Buz - z - z

Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier, about whom the gossips are whispering sweet nothings, and whom lesser Hollywood guardians of inside movie gossip try to keep out of the public eye. Last night, they really enjoyed the reception in Atlanta and when Susan Myrick tried to prevent them from posing for their picture they were very much in favor of the idea even though the Emily Post of Macon frowned upon it. David Selznick thought the picture was a good idea, too.

OLIVIER IS HOPING FOR WEDDING BELLS

Here as Romantic Heart of 'Gone With the Wind' Star.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

He has been married, girls, but he is still hoping to hear wedding bells again.

He drinks tea for breakfast—and is not dieting—likes American football. He is Laurence Olivier, star of "Wuthering Heights" and more recently the unreleased "Rebecca." He came to Atlanta yesterday, NOT as a star of "Gone With the Wind," but simply the romantic heart of the feminine star.

Olivier is far better looking than his pictures indicate and that goes for his appearance before the camera, too. He appears larger on the screen than in real life, and last night at the informal gathering of the press and the stars, he seemed more natural, more at home and more in keeping with the occasion than many of the American stars.

He has an easy manner, he is a good talker, although he says he is a "yes man," and is having a "grand time being Gone With the Wind."

In a confidential mood, he said: "Tell me, off the record, now, what is Miss Margaret Mitchell really like? Do you think she likes the English, as well as we like her?"

About his matrimonial plans, Olivier simply shrugged his shoulders, arched his brows and answered:

"I have been married to a girl in England. But I am still hoping. What more do you want?"

CRUISERS HAMMER GERMAN WARSHIP

vent her useful sailing within 24 hours. Unless repairs were needed, 24 hours would be the limit for her stay in the neutral port.

(The minister, after seeing the condition of the ship and crew, was expected to request internment by the Uruguayan government.)

The battle was fought within the Americas' neutrality belt, and much of it was within sight of the Uruguayan shore where the reverberating roar of the great guns was heard and the flashes of gunfire observed.

(Officials at Washington said, however, that probably no issue would be raised on this question.)

(They said the Graf Spee was within her rights under international law in taking refuge for repairs, but that she would have to leave within 24 hours after repairs are completed.)

Uruguayan port authorities, nervous because their shore had been exposed all day to the booming six and eight-inch guns of the British men-of-war, and the 11-inch mouthpieces of the German, kept curious crowds at a distance as the battleship dropped anchor,

FOOD SCHOOL HELD BY SALLY SAVER

Demonstrations, Lectures Feature Festival and Holiday Dishes.

Sally Saver, foods editor of The Constitution, held an informal cooking school yesterday at College Park school for the women's auxiliary of the College Park Christian church.

Her demonstrations and lectures featured festival and holiday dishes.

She prepared a Christmas salad, fruit bread suitable for "after-the-party" snacks, a mixed grill of sausage and beans, cranberry relish to be served with any entrée, and candied red and green fruit.

Miss Saver, an expert on original economical dishes, holds classes in various communities in response to requests. The schools are sponsored by The Constitution.

apparently seriously damaged. (The secretary to the President told newspapermen, the ship would be allowed to remain in port 30 days. He said the ship's hull was damaged but that her commander said he could make his own repairs, according to the United Press.)

The battered warship, which had hunted south Atlantic shipping lanes since September when she sank the British merchantman Clement, had chanced upon the British Cruiser Ajax just after dawn.

The latter was conveying the French merchantman Formosa from Brazil to Uruguay.

The Graf Spee rushed to the attack, but was momentarily repulsed by the six-inch guns of the speedy Ajax, and then found herself engaged in an unequal combat with three British men-of-war instead of one.

The Exeter and the Achilles came up foaming. The Achilles' six-inch artillery and the Exeter's eight-inch guns spoke in volley after volley.

The Graf Spee apparently found the Exeter's guns particularly damaging, for she turned her attention away from the rest of the pack and devoted her batteries exclusively to the Exeter.

As a result the Exeter was caused some stress, and compelled to quit the battle. Meanwhile, the Formosa steamed away to safety.

But although the largest of the three British ships was thus forced out by damage to her sides, the other two continued to concentrate their fire on the Graf Spee, and she took to her heels.

Graf Spee Overlaken. Although built to outrun battleships and to outgun cruisers, the 26-knot Graf Spee found herself overtaken by the 32.5-knot Ajax and Achilles.

The two lighter cruisers with their eight six-inch guns apiece also were able to throw steel with the Graf Spee with its heavier six 11-inch guns.

Observers at Punta Del Este lighthouse on the Uruguayan coast saw the engagement, with the Graf Spee fleeing in a south-westerly direction in evident search of a haven.

Her guns were still blazing, while her enemies' cannonading continued relentlessly, the black smoke from their funnels leaving a trail across the horizon as they put on forced draft to circle and maneuver.

The fact the German pocket battleship had to seek refuge, however, was described as a "partial victory" and a measure of revenge for the sinking of British merchant ships and such big auxiliary patrol ships as the former P. and O. liner Rawalpindi.

Since the Graf Spee now has been definitely located and can be watched it was said that the German ship will "not be allowed to escape this time when she emerges."

DESERVING NEEDY FACE BLEAK YEAR

bustling city this year. The Constitution and the Family Welfare Society have selected the Ten Opportunities because they are the neediest and have the best chance of overcoming their problems and becoming self-supporting again.
But there are hundreds who will be in want next year.

Federal and state and county and city agencies all try as hard as they can to alleviate suffering and want. These agencies are there to provide direct relief. They do all they can.

But the Constitution's Ten Opportunity fund has a different job cut out for it. It doesn't just administer direct relief. With the cooperation of the Family Welfare Society, it seeks to find the cause of the problems, and to help the distressed families overcome them, to re-establish themselves as wage earners and to regain their self-reliance and self-respect.

Some Are Battered.
Don't you think it vastly important to find these families, help them rehabilitate themselves over a course of months so they will become solid citizens? We firmly believe that no money is better spent than in saving a family from ruin.

The Ten Opportunity families have been visited by crushing tragedy. Sickness and death, injury, desertion—all these and many more tragedies are too well known to the Ten Opportunity families. Such burdens have battered the spirit and courage of the mothers and fathers of these small toy ships tossed by an angry ocean. Fear of insecurity holds them. With no money, no jobs, and borne almost to the ground with burdens not of their creation —don't you see how fear fills their hearts and their brains. It numbs many of them. They grasp eagerly at the slightest chance of winning out.

Honestly, it's truly pitiful just to see how a desperate mother or father will strain and strive to hold the family together despite all odds. Life buffets them like small toy ships tossed by an angry ocean. But in spite of it, they fight onward. It's pitiful, yes, but it's inspiring, too.

Donations Asked.
The Constitution and the Family Welfare Society wants to help this type of mother and father. We believe they deserve it and we know it pays civic dividends.
Don't you want to help, too?
Send a donation, no matter what size, to Hugh H. Trotter, vice president and business manager of the Constitution, who is treasurer of the Ten Opportunity fund.
Every cent you give will be applied to help the family you want to help. Give, this Christmas, a little that you may know every day, week and month of 1940 that you are helping worthy people as you yourself would like to be helped if by chance fate had knocked you off your feet.

tunity No. 5. This boy must be given the chance for a little more education so he will have an opportunity of earning more for himself and his mother. Too soon the mantle of breadwinner will fall on him. But won't you help him out until it does?

This family needs only $25 a month to keep going. That amount will be the "balance wheel" dollars to make ends meet for this mother and her son until he can finish high school.
Little as it is, it's big as a mountain to Mrs. M. and William.
This is your Opportunity No. 5

INVENTOR BELIEVES 'FROZEN SLEEP' OLD

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Dec. 13.—
(AP)—Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, of Temple University, coinventor of the "frozen sleep" treatment for cancer, believes that many years ago people slept through the winter months to save food.

Dr. Smith said that in early Vermont, according to a story first published in a Montpelier paper in 1890, it was the custom, because of food scarcity, "to have the old and infirm people put to sleep in the winter and awakened in the spring."

It is estimated that a large and mature hardwood tree will absorb from the ground through its roots 20 tons of water during spring, summer, and early fall.

SOLONS TO DISCUSS SCHOOL PROBLEMS

DeKalb Citizens, Legislators Will Meet Tonight.

Members of the DeKalb county delegation to the state legislature will meet with the county's citizens' school committee at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the courthouse to discuss proposals which seek to alleviate the financial problem facing the educational system. The committee, headed by Dr. H. D. Crowe, Clarkston, will turn over to the delegation a petition bearing several thousand signatures seeking a special legislative session and a copy of the committee's resolutions passed several weeks ago. The delegation is composed of Senator Paul Lindsay, Representatives Mel Turner, Augustus Sams, and Murphey Candler.

Woman To Seek Divorce After Night at Opera

RENO, Nev., Dec. 13. (P)—Richard Allen Knight, the New York attorney who entertained Metropolitan Opera patrons recently by standing on his head and turning somersaults in the lounge bar, will be sued for divorce here in January.

His socially prominent wife, the former Dorothy Ledyard, said so positively today. And the charges? "That's up to my lawyer—it's just an ordinary divorce. I've been terribly upset by all this publicity and want to get it over with as quickly as possible."

CITY WORKER FACES FORGERY CHARGES

Robert Cales, city stockade employee, was under $500 bond yesterday, waiting federal grand jury investigation into charges that he forged and passed a money order. Postal inspectors allege that Cales, who handled the prisoners' mail, slipped out a $10 money order, forged and passed it. Cales told United States Commissioner David J. Meyerhardt that he bought the order from a prisoner for $8.

Railroads Are Equipped For 50 Per Cent Gain

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (P)—Statistics of the Association of American Railroads indicated today that the roads, in case of war or a big business boom, could handle more than a 50 per cent increase in traffic without buying additional equipment. Association officials would not venture a percentage estimate themselves, but M. J. Gormley, executive assistant, declared, "There isn't any need for a big building program."

GAY BALL TONIGHT TO RETURN 60'S

their own against the background of the great ball, include Clark Gable, Vivien Leigh, Director Victor Fleming, Olivia de Havilland, Ona Munson, Carole Lombard, Alicia Rhett, Laurence Olivier, Ann Rutherford and Laura Hope Crews, among the artists, and such executives as David O. Selznick, Nicholas M. Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, and Writer-Publicist Howard Dietz, to mention only a handful.

From social registers of every important section will be drawn such names as Vanderbilt, Whitney, Rockefeller, Duke, Cromwell, Patterson, Cannon, Reynolds, and from other fields such diverse personalities as William G. McAdoo, Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, Herbert Bayard Swope, Attorney General Frank E. Murphy, William S. Paley, among the hundreds with special claims to fame. Mrs. Roosevelt for awhile thought of coming.

The occasion will be without counterpart in the city's annals, honest students of its activities over the years were certain last night. The nearest approaches, they believed, were the earlier appearances of the Metropolitan Opera Company, which drew brilliant assemblages in the days before the first World War drew American participation.

There will be three centers of interest, exclusive of the boxes containing the celebrities—Taft Hall, which will present the bazaar scene from the book and film; the stage, which will offer the facade and grounds of a southern home and a program of entertainment, and the auditorium floor where, after the show, dancing will follow the grand march led by Harry Sommers, chairman of the Community Fund, and the beautiful but unidentified "Atlanta Scarlett" who won the costume contest of The Constitution and the Junior League.

City-Wide Affair. It is the Junior League's ball, but it has become a city-wide, even a sectional and national, occasion. It is for charity, the proceeds going to the League's school for speech correction, the thyroid clinic at Grady hospital, and the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Hospital for children. The League thought it up and took over the responsibility as soon as it was recognized there should be some such formal recognition of the occasion created by the premiere of the film, "Gone With the Wind," and it has followed through under the general chairmanship of Mrs. M. E. Kilpatrick and Mrs. Malon Courts.

The doors of the gaily decorated auditorium, with its red and blue motif, its smilax and laurel, its flags and drapes, will open at 7:30 o'clock to the first of the 5,000 guests for whom seats are available. Music will be heard from an orchestra directed by Enrico Leide.

An hour later, if it is found possible to follow the schedule, the program will begin with the introduction, by Mrs. Colquitt Carter, league president, of Major Clark Howell as master of ceremonies.

50 Work on Program. The stage presentation, upon which more than 50 members of the league and their escorts have been at work for weeks, will follow, and there will be the introductions of the stars and other notables.

As the program ends, the seats in the arena will be removed by the 200 costumed servants so that the dancing may proceed a little later to the music of Kay Kyser and his orchestra, but not just then. Kyser will arrive, by plane at 11 o'clock this morning. Beginning at 10:30 o'clock, according to the advance schedule, the festivities will be broadcast by the "Red" network of the National Broadcasting Company. In the course of this presentation it is planned to have many of the stars and other widely known personalities introduced to the radio audience.

Grand March at 11:20. The grand march will begin at 11:20 o'clock. At midnight prizes for costumes in the various classifications will be announced by Kyser, and then dancing will continue until 2 o'clock under the inspiration of his band's best offerings.

A Sigma Nu plaque will be presented late in the evening to Kyser, a member of the fraternity, by Senator Walter F. George, also a member, in behalf of the organization. It was recalled last night that former Governor Eugene Talmadge was a member also, but it was not believed he would take part.

Box seat capacity of the auditorium has been doubled by erecting a complete horseshoe directly beneath the permanent boxes at an eye-level of some eight feet from the floor.

A photo-diagram of routes to the auditorium recommended by Captain Jack Malcom of the police traffic squad, is published in this issue of The Constitution.

LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS' SANTA REACHES U. S.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13. (P)—Captain William H. Wincapaw, "Santa Claus" to 126 isolated lighthouse keepers between Boston and Eastport, Maine, arrived on the South American Clipper today to carry out his traditional flight. He missed last year, the first time since 1929 that he dropped no bundles of Christmas gifts to the men whom the other Santa Claus overlooks. But he brought good news.

"For the rest of my life, as long as I can fly, I'll be back to make the Christmas trip for those boys," he stated.

Lovely Atlantan Meets Charming English 'Scarlett'

Margaret Palmer, lovely Atlantan, is shown with Vivien Leigh, who plays "Scarlett" in "Gone With the Wind," in a gathering of celebrities last night antecedent to the ball and premiere of "Gone With the Wind." Miss Palmer is the only Atlanta Girl Who has met Scarlett.

Miss Leigh Thinks 'Scarlett' a Brat, At Times Needed a Good Spanking

Charming English Actress Doesn't Believe 'Rhett' Ever Came Back; Says She Hasn't Seen Completed Picture; Hopes Atlanta Will Like Her.

By LEE ROGERS.

Vivien Leigh, the screen player, thinks "Scarlett," the character, was "an egotistical little brat who at times needed a good spanking."

And that sums up adroitly what the vivacious little Irish-English actress thinks of the person she personifies in the screen version of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind."

Miss Leigh, too, more or less settled a question which the author had left to the public's imagination.

She doesn't think "Rhett Butler" ever came back to "Scarlett."

"Rhett had had enough," she said. Strikingly beautiful, Miss Leigh chatted informally with newspapermen last night. She had made a remarkable recovery from the weariness brought on by the long transatlantic air flight. A couple of hours' rest made a big difference.

With the heavy make-up, which movie stars so often wear when they expect to be photographed in the open air, removed, the natural loveliness of her skin, facial features and figure were apparent.

The one Atlanta girl who had the thrill of meeting the film "Scarlett" last night was Junior Leaguer Margaret Palmer, who chatted at length with Miss Leigh. "She's perfectly lovely," Miss Palmer said in describing Miss Leigh. "I'll bet she is a perfect 'Scarlett.'"

Has Soft, Pleasing Voice. Vivien's accent is soft, not readily distinguishable as English and she has a habit of using many of the favorite southern phrases—though this is her first trip south. The screen "Scarlett" has not seen the completed film.

"I'm waiting for Friday night with the nervousness of the stage actress awaiting opening night,"

Miss Leigh confided. "I'm scared to death, but I do hope Atlanta will like me. They already have been so charming."

The most difficult scene in the play for her to enact, and the one which worried her most when she first read the book, is when "Scarlett" discovers she is no longer loved with "Ashley"—but is in love with "Rhett."

Studied Scene Many Times. "After I was selected for the role of 'Scarlett,' I read that scene over many times trying to determine just how it must be played," she said.

"I've wanted to see Atlanta ever since I first read the book three years ago, and now after walking all over a 'made' Peachtree street I want to walk down the real thing."

Throwing back a reddish brown head of hair and with green eyes laughing, Miss Leigh shook off an pre-premiere praise for herself. "We'll have to wait until Friday night to see about that. I never think anything I do is good."

Atlanta's Hospitality Delights Charming Ann Rutherford As Young Actress Is Engulfed by Southern Atmosphere

'Where Is Peachtree Street?' Is 'Caren's' First Question.

By LUKE GREENE.

Charming, vivacious Ann Rutherford, who plays "Caren" in "Gone With the Wind," touched off Atlanta's premiere celebration with her electric personality yesterday. She arrived amid a gay, roaring welcome and immediately became engulfed in the southern atmosphere she said she had come to love during the filming of the picture.

A few minutes after she and her mother, Mrs. Lucille Mansfield Rutherford, stepped from the train at the Terminal station into the throng of eager, excited admirers who crowded the station platform, the 19-year-old star was whisked away behind screaming sirens to the Georgian Terrace hotel where, in an interview, she used her choicest adjectives to express her joy at being in Atlanta and having a part in the "Gone With the Wind" celebration.

"It's wonderful," she said, rolling her big brown eyes. "Even when I'm 85 I'll look back with pride and say I had a part in 'Gone With the Wind.'"

Miss Rutherford and her mother came from Lexington, Ky., where they visited relatives. "Oh, where is Peachtree street?" was the first thing she said. "I just must take a trip around the city as soon as possible and see all the famous places I've heard so much about. And I promised all mother's relatives in Lexington I would send them postcards from Atlanta, although I didn't tell them I would write anything. As soon as I can get my hands on a camera I'm going out and take some pictures of Peachtree street and the other historic spots."

Radiates Glamor.
The pretty little actress, radiated glamour with every word, and talked on and on with hardly a stop. Her eyes sparkled and her warm smile made her all the more pleasing to talk to. There is little sophistication or pretense about her. She makes you feel as if you had known her a long time. She displays the same sweet personality that has won her thousands of admirers as Polly Benedict in the Judge Hardy series.

She was a little disturbed about what drags she will wear to the ball tonight.

"I understand most of the stars are wearing the costumes they wore in the picture," she said. "The dresses I wore wouldn't seem very glamorous. Certainly I wouldn't look very good in the rags and tatters I wear in part of the picture." At the station carrying the bouquet of flowers presented to her as soon as she stepped from the train, and escorted by Mayor Hartsfield and "Gone With the Wind" officials, she was greeted by applause from the throng who waited on the outside.

PAIR SPEND 71 YEARS IN OLD SCHOOLHOUSE

The chap who spent the happiest years of his life in the third grade should have followed the example of Albert Miller of Dexter, Ind.

Albert, 91, and his wife, Susan Mary, 88, have spent 71 years of married life in the schoolhouse where he was a pupil in pre-Civil war days. The log building was first schoolhouse in this Ohio river community.

Mayo Quits Nazi Diet Experiment When He Acquires a Head Cold

Ed Schmidt Gave Survivor of Quartet Which Tested the Rations Given Germans During Present War; Says He Will Continue as Long as He Can.

Two student members of a Georgia Bund; One said "Gesundheit!" And then there was one.

Henry Mayo, who didn't like cabbage in particular and German war rations in general, last night was resting uncomfortably with a head cold aggravated by his weakened physical condition. He resigned from the Georgia Tech diet to regain strength.

This left Ed Schmidt alone entering the eighteenth day of subsisting entirely on food rations allotted the average German citizen. Schmidt so far has dropped six pounds; Mayo went from 153 pounds to 142, for a loss of 11 pounds.

Mayo, the third student to quit the orgy of malnutrition, is 19 years old and from Norfolk, Va. Commenting upon his resignation he said, "I think I would have been able to stand it until Christmas if this cold hadn't hit me. But I'm so weak I was afraid the cold would get worse if I didn't get more resistance."

Schmidt, however, was feeling as fit as his limiting diet would permit. "I've always said this diet wasn't as bad as it seemed and I'm going to take it as long as I can. I don't blame Mayo for quitting; you can't break a cold on skimmed milk and cabbage. It's the cabbage that got him, but I like it."

The newest resignation begins to show the effects of a limited diet as made necessary by war blockades. Mayo followed James Scanlon by a few days. The first to quit was George Stribling, who left the group after the first week.

Meanwhile the total loss of weight grew. At the time of his departure Stribling had dropped five pounds. Scanlon had lost 10 and Mayo, yesterday, was down 11 pounds. Added to Schmidt's six, the total decrease is 32 pounds.

The loss of weight prompted, according to the boys, a weakened physical condition but improved mental alertness. Stamina, however, was affected.

END IS PREDICTED FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Death Rate Cut 75 Per Cent in Last 30 Years, Medical Director Says.

Dr. A. J. Cohen, medical director of the Eaglesville Sanatorium in Philadelphia, predicts that tuberculosis will be virtually eliminated within the next hundred years.

Dr. Cohen said the tuberculosis mortality rate has been cut 75 per cent in the last 30 years. He pointed out that the disease has dropped to seventh place as a cause of death.

USEFUL HEIRLOOM
A hay fork which the late John R. Boyd of Mayfield, Ky., bought in 1871 for $1.50 was a good investment. It descended to R. E. Boyd, his farmer son, who said it still is in use and has the wooden handle that came with it 68 years ago.

How The Hotels of Atlanta Help All Atlanta Business

Above, scene from Battle of Atlanta Cyclorama at Grant Park. Below, Stone Mountain, where Confederate Memorial is being carved.

And so an extra $20,000 was spent in Atlanta those three days

—Thanks to the resourcefulness of the management of one of Atlanta's hotels.

THE meeting place for an important convention was about to be selected; the choice had narrowed down to Atlanta and one other city. The other city possessed unique charm and great historic interest—Atlanta seemed to have lost this time.

But one Atlanta hotel man wouldn't give up—he looked forward on the calendar, seeking other attractions to emphasize. . . found one of particular appeal to this special group—there was some long distance telephoning. . . Atlanta got the convention.

The hotels had several hundred guests for three days, but Atlanta gained vastly more—probably $20,000 was left with the city's restaurants, theaters, stores and other enterprises—and the visitors went back to their distant homes impressed with Atlanta's cultural advantages and economic importance, its opportunities, its desirability as a place to live.

Thus the hotels of Atlanta constantly serve Atlanta. For of the hotel guest's average dollar, less than 25 cents is spent in the hotel; by far the greater portion goes into the general channels of trade, helping your business—and yours—and yours.

RADIO LINES PUT AT POINTS WHERE GREAT WILL TREAD

CBS To Salute Atlanta Over National Network Tomorrow; WGST Will Broadcast Festivities.

Special radio lines as well as bustles and coiffures have been going up over town the last few days in honor of Margaret Mitchell and a book she wrote.

WGST has had lines installed at all points where the feet of the great are likely to tread, so their listeners may hear everything of importance that occurs during the "Gone With the Wind" premiere celebration.

In addition, Columbia Broadcasting System will salute Atlanta over a national network tomorrow morning. The program will be heard over WGST between 8:15 and 8:30 o'clock.

To be heard on the special "Good Morning" salute will be singers Hannah Lee Childs, Ross Jordan, Don Tuttle and Edith Hendrick. Milton Charles at the organ will also take part in the festivities under the direction of Master of Ceremonies Tommy Bartlett. The program originates in Chicago.

WGST plans to broadcast every

SHERIFF MAKES BOND IN WIMBERLY SLAYING

MACON, Ga., Dec. 13.—(P)—Posting bond of $5,000, Sheriff Sam Kitchens was released from the Bibb county jail today and left immediately for Jeffersonville, county seat of Twiggs.

Kitchens posted the bond on a warrant charging murder of Forest Wimberly, sworn out by a brother of the dead man shortly after a coroner's jury reported the slaying a "justifiable homicide."

event of importance during the three-day celebration.

At 12:05 o'clock this afternoon, the station will broadcast the arrival of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, and a plane bursting with Rockefeller, Vanderbilts and other notables. Then comes Kay Kyser and his musical crew.

Clark Gable, Victor Fleming and Carole Lombard are due in at 3:30. They will be met by WGST's omnipresent microphone.

To Describe Parade.

Later in the afternoon, WGST will broadcast a description of the "Gone With the Wind" parade down Peachtree.

Between 6 and 6:15 o'clock, on the theory that poor we will always have with us, though movie stars not so often, WGST will broadcast their special pre-Christmas, Big Brothers program.

At 9 o'clock tonight, the station's announcers will don their dinner jackets, move to the auditorium and give a play-by-play description of the Junior League ball.

Tomorrow's broadcasting will be climaxed by a description of the premiere throngs and arriving stars at Loew's Grand Theater.

RETURN OF PARTY IS SEEN BY GEORGE

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

Senator Walter F. George told a group of Georgia bankers today the Democratic party would be returned to power in 1940 "provided the people are convinced the party is not paying mere lip service to peace."

He said he believed this country could not be drawn into the European wars because the people were determined to stay out of foreign quarrels.

Addressing Group 5 of the Georgia Bankers' Association, Senator George predicted little would be done in the coming session of congress to change taxes or create new taxes, even for national defense or change social security on the wage and hour laws.

He said he based this belief on the fact a majority of public office-holders must seek re-election in 1940.

Changes in the wage and hour law are necessary, he added, but he predicted the statute would remain as it stands at the coming session.

The chief item confronting congress in January, George said, would be solving of the unemployment problem.

MILL WORKER FOUND DEAD ON RIVER BANK

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Dec. 13.—A. L. Soots, 45, textile worker, was found dead on the Chattahoochee river bank yesterday. A coroner's jury said he came to his death from "unknown causes, probably from exposure."

CAR, BUS ROUTES ARE REARRANGED FOR FESTIVAL DAYS

Peachtree, Whitehall To Be Void of Trolleys for Parade Today; Other Lines Available.

Peachtree and Whitehall streets are to be denuded of street cars and buses during the parade of the stars today, but Atlantans who must reach their destinations in spite of other excitement can find transportation without a great deal of trouble, according to announcement by Georgia Power Company officials.

From approximately 3 o'clock this afternoon until the parade is over, no streetcars or buses will operate on Peachtree and Whitehall streets between the junction of Whitehall and Forsyth streets and that of Peachtree street and Ponce de Leon.

County Schools Will Let Pupils View Parade

Fulton county schools will dismiss 20,000 pupils at 1 o'clock this afternoon so they can see "Gone With the Wind" parade, County School Superintendent Jere A. Wells announced yesterday.

The city board of education announced Tuesday that their 60,000 pupils would be dismissed at 1 o'clock also.

Druid Hills and the general north-eastern section will be routed along Pryor street; northbound traffic out West Peachtree and Baker streets, where outboard cars made be caught. Southbound cars and buses may be caught at Marietta and Broad streets, or at Forsyth and Marietta. Temporary bus service, during the ceremonies, will operate on Peachtree between Ponce de Leon avenue and Pershing Point, on Ponce de Leon avenue between Peachtree and Boulevard.

'PHONE HEARING CHANGED.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Dec. 13. The date for an open hearing in Atlanta on the Milledgeville Telephone and Telegraph Company's request for permission to install dial telephones here has been changed from Tuesday, December 19, to Wednesday, December 20, by the Georgia Public Service Commission, Marion Ennis, phone company attorney, announced yesterday.

If You Are Driving to the Charity Ball It Will Pay You To Look at This

Drive Safely Today! Observe Traffic Regulations

Captain Jack Malcom yesterday announced traffic routings and parking regulations in and around the city auditorium to become effective before the Junior League ball at 6:30 o'clock tonight. There will be three routes to the auditorium, two are recommended by the police. SOUTHBOUND automobiles must follow Peachtree street, there turning right to circle the city auditorium. NORTHBOUND traffic will be routed over the Courtland street viaduct, along Courtland street to the main entrance. Open to traffic, BUT NOT RECOMMENDED.

A picture of Miss Leigh shaking hands with the mayor. Clutching her blue, brimmed hat, she plausibly cried, "If I do, I can't keep my hat."

City officials, police, film officials and newspapermen swarmed all around the stars, cutting off the view for the crowds, mostly women and schoolgirls, who had been standing in the cold wind for nearly two hours awaiting the arrival of the plane.

Modest Mr. Olivier and Mrs. Selznick walked away from the newspapermen and stood off to themselves, almost unnoticed by the fans, whose eyes had hardly left Miss Leigh since she stepped from the plane. When the eyes did wander, it seemed to be to Miss De Havilland, whose beauty commanded attention.

From his vantage point on the side lines, Mr. Olivier, reportedly the fiancé of Miss Leigh, laughingly commented on the reception "Scarlett" and "Melanie" were getting.

About an hour later another plane swooped down on Candler field bringing Atlanta's own Evelyn Keyes, who plays "Su-ellen," and Ona Manson, the "Belle Watling" of the film.

But the folks at the airport failed to immediately recognize their own home-town star and her companion.

It is explainable. Two regular flight planes had come in while everyone was waiting for Miss Leigh and Miss De Havilland and their party to arrive. Each had proved a false alarm. Miss Keyes and Miss Munson came in on a regular flight, and like the townspeople who heard the shepherd boy call "fox" too often, they'd come to believe no stars rode regular planes.

But, like good sports, Miss Munson and Miss Keyes walked up the field about 25 yards to where the reception committee was standing—and there Evelyn's mother recognized her daughter. And Chief of Police Hornsby presented both girls with a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the city and hurried them into a car and rushed them to town behind a police escort.

Meeting the first plane to greet Olivia de Havilland, was an Atlantian, Walter Clarke, who had gone to school with Olivia in Japan.

Big Welcome.

All the film greats already in Atlanta for the world premiere of "Gone With the Wind" were on hand to give a big welcome to the screen heroine. There was hugging and even a trifle bit of kissing, going light on the latter to protect the makeup of the stars whose pictures must be made.

There was a mad dash on the part of the public to get to cars and to get into the parade. College boys and young women recklessly fought to get their cars in position immediately behind the dignitaries and didn't give up the fight until the hotel was reached.

Riding in the various cars were: Car 1—Mayor Hartsfield, Vivien Leigh and David O. Selznick, with Mike Benton driving.

Car 2—Mr. and Mrs. Dietz, Olivia de Havilland and Walter Clarke.

Car 3—Mrs. Selznick, Katherine Brown and Laurence Olivier.

Car 4—Russell Birdwell, M.-G.-M. studio official; Susan Myrick and W. R. Ferguson, M.-G.-M. exploitation director.

Maids, baggage and agents followed in the other cars.

They were brought to town in a roundabout way to avoid traffic.

Hasn't Seen Peachtree.

Hence, "Scarlett" hasn't yet seen Peachtree street—except for that little bit in front of the Georgian Terrace and it hadn't been built out that far during the days of the Atlanta she knew in "Gone With the Wind."

Thus "Scarlett" returned to the scenes of her greatest triumphs—and sat down in her hotel suite in a 20th century Atlanta to rest and wait for "Rhett Butler" to return to her.

(Rhett, in the person of Clark Gable, will arrive this afternoon.)

MENED, is eastbound traffic on Gilmer street, which will turn left on Courtland. These three approaches, Captain Malcom said, will be one-way routes and the only streets available to automobile traffic heading to the auditorium. Parking will be prohibited from 6:30 o'clock on the west side of Peachtree avenue from Ellis to Gilmer streets, and on both sides of Peachtree from Gilmer to Decatur streets. Both sides of Gilmer street from Ivy to Peachtree avenue will be closed to parking, as will both sides of Courtland from Gilmer to Edgewood.

ARMY WILL TRAIN 1,200 FOR AIR CORPS

120 Will Come From This Area.

United States army will accept 1,200 young men for flying cadet training and commissioning in the Air Corps Reserve, Fourth Corps and the third in May.

Area headquarters announced yesterday.

Of the number approximately one-tenth will be chosen from the residents of the eight states of this area.

Successful applicants for flying cadet training will be divided into three classes of 400 each. First class begins its training period in February, the second in March, the third in May.

KAY KYSER, BAND WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Orchestra Leader's Plane Scheduled To Reach Atlanta by Noon.

Kay Kyser, famed professor of "The College of Musical Knowledge" and his equally famous orchestra, will arrive by special plane this morning to play for the "Gone With the Wind" premiere ball at the city auditorium tonight.

Kyser is to leave from New York at 7 o'clock this morning and is expected to land at Candler Field between 11 o'clock and noon.

Mike Benton, grand marshal of the city's festival celebration, again will be in charge of the welcoming delegation which will include representatives of the Junior League, the Sigma Nu fraternity, Mayor Hartsfield and other city officials.

Mounted policemen will escort the party into the city and this afternoon Kyser will join the other notables in a parade through the downtown section. The arrival at the field will be broadcast over station WGST.

Kyser, one of the top band leaders in the country, has been appearing on nationally broadcast programs for years and will act as master of ceremonies during the broadcast of the premiere ball over NBC from 10:30 to 11 o'clock tonight.

SHOOTS TWO, KILLS SELF.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 13.—(UP)—R. E. Gann, 48, a railway switchman, today shot and critically wounded his wife, shot her sister, and then committed suicide. The shooting climaxed a family argument, officers said.

PUBLIC IS THANKED FOR SEAT REQUESTS

Fund Asks Newspapers To Acknowledge Thousands of Unfilled Applications.

With literally thousands of letters, cards and telegrams from persons applying for seats to "Gone With the Wind," Community Fund leaders, sponsors of the event, asked Atlanta newspapers yesterday to acknowledge requests for tickets.

"We had at least 10 requests for each available seat and now we are faced with the job of acknowledging the applications received in every form from telegrams to telephone calls," Harry Sommers, Fund chairman, said yesterday.

"Because of the great mass of details and volume of letters which would be required to acknowledge applications from persons who did not receive seats since it was impossible to fill all the requests, we ask the indulgence of the public in accepting this explanation in lieu of individual letters," Sommers added.

Mary Won't Go To See 'Doug' Still in Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP)—Even if she had the time, Mary Pickford said today, she would not attend the funeral of her former husband, Douglas Fairbanks, in California.

"The second the spirit leaves the body, the body is nothing but an empty shell, not the person you knew and cared for. I don't want anybody to look at me when I'm dead. Funerals are barbarous, revolting affairs. I go to them as seldom as I possibly can."

Miss Pickford said she and Fairbanks had met as directors frequently at United Artists meetings since their divorce and that she had seen him at a meeting last Thursday in Los Angeles. Then, she said, he looked "marvelous" and "youthful," and that was the picture of "Douglas that I want to carry in my mind forever."

Danger of typhus outbreak is feared in Warsaw, where more than 1,300,000 persons are crowded in what remains of the city's buildings.

Helmets worn by British "Tom-mies" are made of non-magnetic manganese steel.

'Belle Watling' Was Welcome at This Atlanta Party

CITY READY TO GIVE STARS BIG OVATION

3:30 o'clock. A 30-car procession in which all the stars and the film officials will ride will be waiting at Trinity and Whitehall streets and will move as soon as Gable and Fleming arrive from Candler field.

Accompanying Director Fleming and Star Gable will be Carole Lombard, Mrs. L. B. Mayer and Howard Strickland, M-G-M studio publicity director. Mayor Hartsfield will present Miss Lombard with a big bouquet of flowers on her arrival and the city will give flower bouquets to all women in the parade.

Line of march is from Whitehall and Trinity to Five Points down Peachtree to the Georgian Terrace. No stops will be made until the parade reaches the hotel.

Here is the order of cars in the parade this afternoon:

Stars Are Arriving.

Stars and officials, who began arriving yesterday, continue this morning. Miss Laura Hope Crews, "Aunt Pittypat" in the film, is the first arrival this morning, getting in at the Union station from Chicago at 8:20 o'clock. A welcome is planned for her there.

Closely following her and arriving at 8:25 o'clock at the Terminal station will be Claudette Colbert; W. P. Rodgers, general sales manager of M-G-M; T. J. Connors, eastern, southern and Canadian sales manager for M-G-M; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel T. O'Shea, vice president of Selznick International; Miss Betty Baldwin, secretary of David O. Selznick; Miss Barbara Keon, assistant scenarist of "Gone With the Wind," and Jimmy Newcom, assistant to the film editor.

Film Officials Due.

An hour later, at 9:25 o'clock at the Terminal station will arrive: Mr. and Mrs. William Goetz, 20th Century-Fox official; Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Altstock, comptroller of the Pioneer Pictures; John Whorton, Selznick International official; Robert Samuels, Selznick's attorney; his niece, Miss Samuels.

Also arriving this morning from Pittsburgh will be Selznick's mother, Mrs. Florence Selznick. On the 2:05 plane this afternoon will arrive Mr. and Mrs. Lowell V. Calvert, sales manager of Selznick International, and James H. Barrett, whose wife persuaded Selznick to buy the film rights to Margaret Mitchell's book.

Mayor to Meet Stars.

The mayor and film officials will meet all the stars at their arrival. The Parade of the Stars is under the direction of Mike Benton. There will be no "on foot" units. Bands will be stationed at practically every street corner and state patrolmen, Atlanta and Fulton county police, national guardsmen, cavalry units and Boy Scouts will line the streets to give the stars protection and hold back the crowds.

Bands and their stations along the parade route are: Commercial High band at Brotherton street; the Fulton High band at Garnett street; O'Keefe Junior High band at Mitchell street; Murphy Junior High band at Alabama street; Joe Brown band at Wall street.

Georgia Tech band at Five Points; West Fulton High band at Luckie street; American Legion Drum and Bugle corps in front of the Grand theater; North Fulton High band at Cain street; Washington (Ga.) High school band at West Peachtree and Peachtree intersection.

Marist band at the Peachtree-Ivy intersection; Boys' High band at Pine street; Tech High band at Linden street; G. M. A. band at North avenue, and the Georgia State Girls' Military band at the Georgian Terrace.

Official Welcome at Hotel.

When the parade reaches the hotel, the stars will be welcomed officially to the city and the keys to Atlanta turned over to them by Mayor Hartsfield. On the platform will be Gable, Miss Leigh and the other stars, Director Fleming, Selznick, Governor Rivers, Mayor Hartsfield, six Confederate veterans who will form Gable's escort of honor and six widows of Confederate soldiers.

Also on the platform will be visiting governors: Dixon, of Alabama; Cooper, of Tennessee; Cone, of Florida; Maybanks, of South Carolina; White, of Mississippi, and Mrs. Earl Long, wife of the Louisiana governor.

Confederate Flag Raising.

Ceremonies will begin with the raising of the battleflag of the Confederacy. During this program, Mayor Hartsfield will present the visiting stars, the director and Selznick sets of china on which will be told the story of the last 100 years in Atlanta's history.

The triangle at Peachtree and Ponce de Leon, where the platform is built, will be under powerful floodlights for newsreel pictures.

Ann Rutherford will attend a luncheon given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Ansley hotel at 12:15 o'clock.

The city of Atlanta will rededicate the old gas lamp at Whitehall and Alabama streets, which was shot down by Union artillery. The ceremony is booked for 10:15 o'clock this morning with the U. S. C. and the Old Guard in charge. Music will be furnished by the Washington, Ga., high school band.

MEDICAL BODY ELETS.

MARIETTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—Dr. L. L. Welch has been elected president of the Cobb County Medical Society for 1940, with Dr. Muri Hagood as vice president; Dr. W. H. Perkinson, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. Mayes Guber, censor. Dr. Welch succeeds Dr. G. O. Allen.

'BELLE WATLING' HARD TO PORTRAY

Ona Munson Had to Pantomime Much of Character.

By CHARLES GILMORE.

Ona Munson, who plays "Belle Watling" in the film version of "Gone With the Wind," is in real life nothing like the lurid character Margaret Mitchell portrayed. Ona Munson, she, is a lady.

She says, "When I read the book I felt the character of 'Belle Watling' and tried to interpret what I felt. That's all there is to it." That's all there is to it as far as Miss Munson is concerned. She had a job and she did it well, as everybody said last night during an informal press conference. "The most difficult part of Belle Watling's role," she said, "is acting between the lines. 'Belle' had so many things to say that could not be said, it was necessary to enact them. That took patience and hard work. I hope I have been able to do what they would not let me say."

Miss Munson had no apprehensions in accepting the role, as is the case of many an actress when confronted by an objectionable character. "When I learned the part I had to play, I was delighted. So many wanted it I had no idea the directors would give it to me."

It took Miss Munson exactly 48 hours to read "Gone With the Wind" after the little note informing her of her selection had arrived. "I couldn't put it down. It's really wonderful to be here and see so many of the things just as they were in the book."

Nazis Take Post; Capture 10 Men

PARIS, Dec. 13.—(AP)—The French reported today that Germans captured one small outpost and 10 prisoners during attacks on the western front yesterday but that the French lines were quickly reorganized. Tonight's high command communiqué said this flurry of activity was followed by a day of comparative inactivity.

KURTZ DISCOVERS DOG FORGOT HIM DURING ABSENCE

Technical Adviser Brings Back Many Stories Concerning Filming of 'Gone With the Wind.'

Wilbur Kurtz returned from Hollywood yesterday with fragments of the vase Vivian (Scarlett) Leigh threw at Clark (Rhett) Gable at the Wilkes' barbecue, and other mementoes of more than a year on the west coast as technical adviser during the filming of "Gone With the Wind." There was one jarring note to his homecoming. The family dog had forgotten him. Chief thrill of returning, he said, was the sight of genuine red clay when he woke up yesterday morning as his train approached Atlanta.

Hollywood, he remarked, thinks Georgia as fantastic as Georgia thinks Hollywood, mainly because of the clay.

As technical adviser, it was his job to see that the film had an authentic atmosphere. One look at California dirt, and he had a sardine tin of sample Georgia clay sent out.

Hollywood was doubtful about anything in nature being that red, Kurtz said, but at his suggestion dutifully spread red tile dust over all locations until the proper Georgia tone was reached.

"The job," he reminisced, "was a glorious picnic. But it was no gray train. There was a lot of work and detail, but it was the kind of work that I enjoy."

The visiting stars, Kurtz continued, are very much interested in seeing Atlanta. They lived, breathed, worked and thought Atlanta for so long that the city is bound to have some sort of glamour for them.

"Before 'Gone With the Wind' Atlanta was nothing more than a geographical location to most of them, if that."

While the city today looks disappointingly like a segment of Pittsburgh, Cleveland or any other product of our democratic and industrial civilization, Kurtz believes the stars in search of the old south will be consoled by the enthusiasm Atlantans have worked up over the premiere.

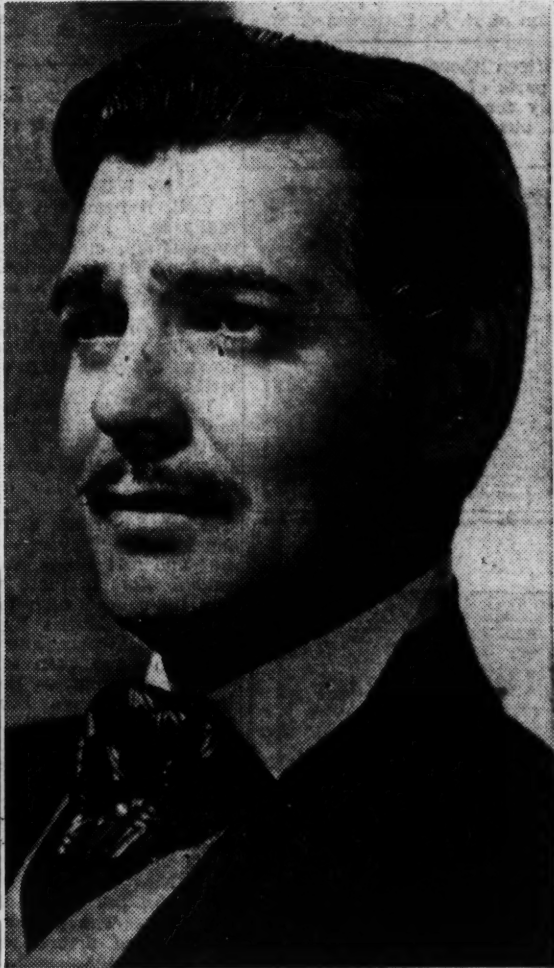

'Rhett,' Wife (Not 'Scarlett') and Director Fleming Will Wing in Today

Victor Fleming, whose genius as director is credited with having produced a faithful, moving and artistic film version of "Gone With the Wind," is shown at left with Carole Lombard and Clark Gable. Miss Lombard, wife of Gable, and herself a star of the first rank, will arrive with the long-awaited

"Rhett" and Director Fleming this afternoon by plane from Hollywood. Fleming and Gable are principal masculine luminaries in the festivities.

Tenants of cottage plots in Laighs, Eire, who do not cultivate their gardens during the coming year will be dispossessed of both cottages and plots, according to an official notice.

Fleming's Adventurous Career Fits Him as All-Round Director

Man Who Struggled for Months To Make 'Gone With the Wind' a Superb Production To Share Honors With Stars at Premiere.

The man who struggled for months to make "Gone With the Wind" a superb production—the man whose name ranks along with the names of the stars—will arrive at Candler Field about 3 o'clock this afternoon for the festivities accompanying the premiere of the picture.

He is Victor Fleming, the director, who will be on the plane bringing Clark Gable, Carole Lombard, L. B. Mayer, studio producer, and Howard Strickland, M-G-M studio publicity manager, here for the celebration.

Fleming has behind him an adventurous and colorful career which fits him for the difficult task of directing all types of pictures.

Was Auto Racer. Early in his life he became interested in automobile racing and obtained a job as a pit mechanic. Soon he won recognition as a daring driver, working with Barney Oldfield and other noted daredevils of the track.

Later he turned to photography and became a cameraman, again satisfying the adventurous urge that has driven him since he can remember. In 1910, when motion pictures were gaining a foothold in California, Fleming went to Santa Barbara and landed a job as a photographer with the old American studios. He did work for Kahn, Arrifish, Fine Arts, and others of the pioneer companies, working his way eventually toward a director's berth.

When the World War came along, Fleming enlisted as a lieutenant in the United States signal corps and also did meritorious work for the Intelligence Department.

RIVERS PROCLAIMS 'FINLAND' SUNDAY

Complies With Suggestion by Ex-President Hoover; Needs Are Told.

The Finnish relief fund drew indorsement of Governor Rivers yesterday in a proclamation declaring Sunday, December 17, to be "Finland day." Financial support was suggested.

The Governor acted upon a request from Herbert Hoover, former President and chairman of the commission for relief of Belgium in the World War. Hoover and his former colleagues have undertaken the work of administration for Finnish relief under the leadership of Edgar Rickard, with an office in the Graybar building, New York, N. Y.

In a public statement December 8, Hoover said, "Hundreds of thousands of women and children have been driven from their homes in the middle of winter" by the Finnish-Russia hostilities. "Many are without adequate food, clothing and food. This fund is for the purpose of serving these broad needs."

STATE LABOR UNIT TO MOVE OFFICES

New Building To House Department.

The State Department of Labor yesterday made preparations to move during the week end from its downtown offices into the sixth floor of the state's new $800,000 office building across the street from the capitol.

Moving operations will begin at the close of business Saturday at noon and crews will work both day and night to complete the job by Monday morning.

Although several hundred pieces of office furniture, files and heavy and intricate machinery are to be moved, officials said they anticipated no interruption in departmental business.

FLU EPIDEMIC CLOSES

SCHOOLS IN SYLVANIA

SYLVANIA, Ga., Dec. 13.—(AP)—An epidemic of influenza which has affected approximately one-fourth of the 800 pupils in the Sylvania High school forced closing of the institution today until after Christmas holidays, it was announced through the office of County School Superintendent A. A. Waters.

An attache of Mr. Waters' office said the epidemic began about three weeks ago, and that the illness of five teachers added to the demoralization of the classes.

Fortunately, he said, the influenza is of a comparatively mild type and no serious illnesses have been reported.

Federal savings and loan associations, despite the name, are all locally owned and privately operated institutions.

Louisiana Voters Tell Their Story

Ten years ago Huey P. Long, the Louisiana "Kingfish," burst across the national sky. Huey made himself the boss of Louisiana. When he died, in 1935, his machine carried on. To find out what the voters of Louisiana think about the Long machine, which still rules the state, the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted a scientific fact-finding investigation among a cross-section of Louisiana voters.

From the up-country parishes along the Arkansas line to the Mississippi delta country, carefully selected field investigators have gotten the Louisiana story . . . what the state thinks of the present Long machine . . . whether they regard the elections of recent years as being "on the level" or not . . . and what they think of the late "Kingfish" himself.

Publicity and Advertising Chief of M.-G.-M. Reveals Formula for Successful Writing

Howard Dietz Says One Must Recognize Need for Consistent Effort.

By WILLARD COPE

Well, it turns out that there really is a formula for writing successfully, entertainingly, and with artistic satisfaction. The way you do it is to get a heavy duty, full-time, coast-to-coast job exploiting films for M.-G.-M., and then, in your spare time, you sit down at your typewriter and write.

That is Howard Dietz's way. He is director of advertising and publicity for M.-G.-M. He is also the librettist for such successful musical shows as "The Band Wagon," "Three's a Crowd," the first and second "Little Shows," "Flying Colors," "Revenge With Music" and "At Home Abroad." His collaborators in these small matters have been such men as Jerome Kern, Morris Ryskind and Arthur Schwartz, and appearing in them have been some rather well-known folk, — Beatrice Lillie, Libby Holman, Ethel Waters, Eleanor Powell, Clifton Webb, Charles Butterworth, Buddy Ebsen, Fred Allen, Evelyn Laye, among others.

Greeted By Mayor.

Dietz, who led the parade of motion picture celebrities into Atlanta, arrived yesterday morning from New York with his charming wife, the former Miss Tania Guinness. The mayor and Mike Benton and divers and sundry newspaper photographers and reporters, and a number of important "Gone With the Wind" exploitation officials, including W. R. Ferguson, E. B. Coleman and A. L. Burk, came down through the rain to the Terminal station to greet them, and present flowers. Then Dietz went out to his headquarters at the Georgian Terrace and waded into a mass of work awaiting him in connection with the premiere.

But he was persuaded from a long-distance telephone conversation with Los Angeles for a little while, and finally he talked, and well, too, for publication, once his modesty was burned in a buoyant enthusiasm for his subject. He wouldn't talk much about himself, but he loosed some highly interesting and piercing philosophy about movies and about writing.

"Everybody does something besides just his work," said this man who ought to know. "Some people take it out in golf. Well, it happens that I like to take it out in writing. You don't work all the time, you know. It's surprising what you can get done if—suppose you write just one day a week, and I mean really write. Suppose you write two days a week. Think what you'll have managed to do in a year."

A "Lone Wolf" Job.

"In a way it is a 'lone wolf' proposition, but all creative effort, all writing, or sculpture, or music, or painting, no matter how poor, has to be a one-man, 'lone wolf' proposition. You have to get out there by yourself and out there by yourself, and work at it. I don't mean to say I follow as close a routine as this sounds, or anywhere near it, but it suggests how to write if one is really determined to write. In other words—consistent effort."

He offered an idea which has value in a range far outside motion picture exploitation.

"Patriotism," he said, "is something you can see with your eye. Beyond that it's hokum. I mean just this: The only things that are real to you are what you see with your eyes. Maybe what you're really to a certain extent, but mostly it's the eyes. Well, your home town and your home life, and your family and your friends, these are the things you see. They are the things that are real. They possess your sentiment and feelings."

"Maybe you're really patriotic about a lot of things that have been told to you, but you're fooling yourself. You have to see a thing to have feeling over it. That's why Atlanta, and the south, and this whole nation, are so moved by 'Gone With the Wind.' It is a part of American life. It is something we have seen with our own eyes. I don't mean the specific scenes, but the story as a whole, the picture of America at one of the crises of its growth—this, in my meaning, we have seen."

Series Suggested.

"I think it would be one of the greatest contributions the motion picture industry could make to our developing civilization if we could find a way to make a film of every city and town in this country. Every one of them has a story. That story has meaning, not only for the people of the town, but for Americans of every section. It would be the greatest series of pictures ever made."

"Newspapers ought to recognize this principle also. The best newspaper is the one that is most local in its point of view. The doings of the neighborhood, the simple every-day life of the people, are what the newspaper should concern itself with. If there were any way to do that in New York, somebody would grow very rich and powerful—and very famous. It is amazing the number of small town dailies and country weeklies which find their way into New York. It's still the 'eye' principle—the folks want to know what's still going on back 'home.'"

Dietz, at 43, can look back upon 20 years of highly successful production.

Olivia de Havilland, whose striking beauty is a distinct asset to the film version of "Gone With the Wind," in which she enacts the part of "Melanie," has an excellent time with Howard Dietz, publicity director and librettist of top-flight musical plays, at a party given last night for the press in anticipation of the ball and premiere.

motion of films. He went to Columbia University, was in the navy for a while, a reporter in New York, and an advertising man on his own for time. "Just an old foggy, a one-job man," he terms himself. "I got this job 20 years ago and I've been sticking with it ever since."

Speaking earnestly of the prospects for "Gone With the Wind," he had just received a personal message of thanks from Mrs. John R. Marsh, author of the book—he said it already had made history, and beyond any question would prove the most successful film that has been made up to this point. The only possible basis of comparison, he felt, was "Birth of a Nation," and its record would be left far behind.

A new technicolor process, involving a sharpening of focus, was in filming the production, and Dietz telephoned Hollywood for precise information on the point, which he will make public today. More cameras were said to have been used in shooting the burning of the ammunition trains than in any other known scene in cinema history. This point, too, in his exacting way, he will clear up. He wants, it seems, to know just how many cameras there were.

A significant want—it tells you in a moment why Dietz is what he is.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Traffic Engineer A. Raley Jones chided Augustans for a tendency to back out of parking spaces without proper signals, warnings—or in some cases even looking back. Aside from risking the backing driver's own neck, this practice endangers other drivers and pedestrians, he said, and is one of the major reasons for a heavy police list of minor accidents.

WHEAT GROWERS NEED RAIN BADLY

Old Dust Bowl Country Is Hit Hardest; Rivers Are Half Full.

By The Associated Press. Santa Claus will be in the dog house if he doesn't pack along a big rain or snow to break a severe plains drought.

Most of the area needs moisture for stock and the coming crop season.

The fall season has been almost rainless in the old dust bowl of western Kansas, eastern Colorado and the Oklahoma panhandle where the dry spell is most severe.

Most seriously threatened are the winter wheat belt and the stock country. Much winter wheat in western Kansas and western Nebraska failed to germinate in the dry soil. In southwestern Nebraska, McCook has had no rain for more than three months.

Quaint Costumes Unpacked From Attic Trunks For Ball This Evening

Miss Carol Ingram

Miss Margaret Sage

Miss Ingram Dons Ancestors' Clothes Tonight

By SALLY FORTH.

CAROL INGRAM put on her great-grandmother's "old gray bonnet with the blue ribbon on it," and took her seat in the high-backed chair, supposedly to wait for "Old Dobbin to be hitched to the shay," in which to drive to the Junior League's gala "Gone With the Wind" charity ball this evening. The dress was in the wardrobe of her great-great-aunt, Mrs. Clementine Rapp Postlewait, more than 100 years ago.

The cute little gray straw bonnet, trimmed with gray velvet, belonged to Elizabeth Jane Johnson, who lived in Conyers during the War Between the States, and she made the basket out of corn shucks. Whenever she rode horseback to Atlanta to bring suits, socks and shirts to the Confederate commissary to give the soldiers, she packed the basket full of lunch for the all-day trip. She married John Egan Rapp and their descendants long have been identified with pioneer history.

Carol is seated in the mahogany chair upholstered with ruby velvet, owned by her grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Rapp, president of Atlanta Pioneer Women's Society. The coverlet was woven in 1839 in Newark, Ohio, for W. M. Rapp, great-great-grandfather of blond and pretty Carol.

Ruby red cashmere fashions the dress and the ruby satin panel running down the front is shirred into the high neckline, and draped at the waistline and hemline to make two puffs. Pink satin bands trimmed with tassels hold the puffs in place, and the handsome wool lace cascading the panel is caught with pink satin bows.

Bell-shaped sleeves have an opening at the wrist to show the pink satin lining. The princess

Miss Sage Wears Grandmother's Dress to Ball

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD.

ARRAYED in a dress displaying the theme of a bygone period, Margaret Sage pauses with her hand resting on the railing of the wrought-iron balustrade, to meditate over the spectacular "Gone With the Wind" costume ball, to be staged by Junior Leaguers this evening. The old-fashioned dress belonged to her paternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Ira Y. Sage, who wore it to the inaugural ball of President William J. McKinley.

That nationally important event took place in Washington, D. C., at the time Mrs. Sage was honorary vice president of Georgia Society of Colonial Dames. As such, she attended the brilliant ball and proudly represented her patriotic organization.

Cream-colored brocaded satin fashions the old-timey dress, which has fan-shaped silk panels inserted at stated intervals all around the lower part of the voluminous skirt. A real lace bertha purchased in Paris ornaments the off-the-shoulder outline of the tight-fitting stem-waisted and stiffly whaleboned bodice, which comes to decided points in the back and front.

Elbow-length sleeves are finished with hand-made tating, tissue silk and brocaded satin bands. Pleats at the waistline in the back of the skirt introduce sufficient fullness to let the skirt flare into a short train. Every stitch in the garment was put in by hand by an Atlanta dressmaker.

A single white gardenia—that fragrant flower so redolent of the old south—nestles in Margaret's dark brown hair and accentuates her exotic beauty. Margaret bears the full name of her grandmother, who was Margaret Alexander, of

Blame the Wee Waist Fashion on Scarlett O'Hara

She's Influenced Feminine World To Count Calories

By Ida Jean Kain.

Written Exclusively for The Constitution. It looks as though the fashion for the ample waistline has "gone with the wind." Scarlett O'Hara was supposed to have an 18-inch waistline, and ever since that story came out waistlines have been rapidly dwindling. Actually they are now a good five inches smaller!

Of course you know how Scarlett got her hand-span waist. At a tender age she laced herself into a corset and from then on she never drew a full breath. On one occasion, when she wanted to look particularly svelter, the laces were pulled so tight she couldn't eat any picnic lunch!

We are not going to carry things that far! Nevertheless, Scarlett's tantalizing slender waist has influenced the feminine world to keep their calories on the safe and svelter side and to take a turn at exercise.

Miss Vivien Leigh, who plays the movie Scarlett, has a small waistline on her own account. With no pinching and squeezing it spans a mere 23 inches. But she doesn't do it by dieting. She has a terrific amount of energy and plunges into everything with true O'Hara enthusiasm. That calls for food and she eats heartily. But she never eats between meals, not even to the extent of indulging in the mid-afternoon English "tea."

Also, she gets more than the average amount of exercise. A devotee of walking, she starts off briskly and breezes into the place she is heading for. She enjoys sports and plays tennis, golf and swims regularly. This English beauty's theory is that one cannot keep healthy unless she keeps active and that you need good food to keep active. Well, she has something there!

Miss Leigh actually has that lovely "magnolia skin" which Margaret Mitchell described Scarlett as possessing. She uses no special skin treatment and thinks outdoor exercise is worth more than all the trick complexion aids in existence. She was born with a lovely skin and she means to keep it that way—the healthy way.

Miss Leigh is highly in favor of massage while working under tension. She has a nightly massage after a hard day on the set to relieve the nervous strain.

Usually she has to get fun out of exercise or it is no go. But she has just one exercise tucked up her sleeve which she claims is the best single all around exercise in existence. Here it is...

Lie flat on your back, feet elevated to the seat of a chair, hands on hips. Now arch the body as far upward as possible, with weight resting on hips and heels. Do this five times each morning and five more later in the day, and work gradually to the point where you are doing this 30 times each morning and afternoon. This exercise, Miss Leigh promises, will keep you trim and willowy.

But take it from me, if the above exercise won't give you the 23-inch waistline that Vivien possesses, you'll have to add a few twists and turns!

Vivien Leigh, the vivacious Scarlett of "Gone With the Wind," has a small waistline on her own account. With no pinching, squeezing, or being laced into a corset, her waist spans a mere 23 inches. She indulges in a sufficient amount of outdoor exercise to keep her slim and lovely. She was born with a lovely "magnolia skin" and she means to keep it that way—the healthy way. Plenty of exercise and no diets, for the lovely Scarlett.

Dignified Actor Asks Producer for Autograph

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 13.—Sonja Henie, posing with an expensive make of car—and receives it as a gift for her trouble... Jimmy Stewart all alone at the Dave Chasen restaurant (the most popular eating establishment in town)... Charles Laughton goes kitchy on Cecil B. de Mille. When the producers' car stops at the Paramount entrance gate, the bulky Laughton jumps on the running-board and shouts—"Hold on, guv'nor—I want your autograph. De Mille signs before realizing the joke... Loretta Young attends a night football game with a man I've never seen before (he must be a producer). In front of her sits Robert Riskin, one of her most frequent escorts. All during the game, Loretta and Bob indulge in an animated conversation. I don't think her escort liked it.

Seen on a Metro street: "This mountain not to be moved without permission!"

Errol Flynn, Cary Grant, and Bruce Cabot, the three best-looking men in Hollywood, have joined forces and are doing the gay spots and night clubs together—which is unfair to disorganized females... According to Hal Roach, Constance Bennett was an angel to work with in comparison to Sister Joan (with whom Hal is now having friction over "The Housekeeper's Daughter").

All I will say is that Joan must have been very difficult to work with!... Lew Ayres, who is more highbrow than most of his acting colleagues, was invited to a girls' junior college, where he lectured to three classes—modern history, economics and sociology. At the end of each talk—followed breathlessly by the girls—there was a wild stampede for the Ayres autograph.

Ronald Colman's hair is getting white at the sides and the temples—which makes him yet more attractive. It was a contradiction in terms to see Colman, the wife in a luxury-make car eating a 10-cent hamburger in a drive-in... Rudy Vallee is hoping to "sell" his 16-year-old vocalist, Peggy Goodwin, to the studios in a picture reminiscent of "One Night of Love," with Rudy playing the role of impresario... Jack Benny has to get on a horse for his current picture. Before straddling the animal, he hands the director an envelope bearing the words—"To Mary Livingstone, from the late Jack Benny." The joke, if any, is that the horse was the rocking chair.

Dorothy Lamour receives a long letter from three French corporals in which everything is blotted out by the censors except the P. S.—"Please send three photographs with sarong"... In Robert Montgomery's next picture, "The Earl of Chicago," his forehead line has been brought down to within an inch of his eyebrows. "I tried to look like Clark Gable," Bob explains—within the hearing of Clark... Orson Welles has shed 30 pounds for his cinema career. He has given up liquor and eliminated butter from his diet. However, he still consumes four or five-pound steaks for breakfast... Evolution of a film star as seen through the eyes of a car. When Errol Flynn first came to Hollywood he owned a $700 auto. This was followed by a $1,500 model. Next came a $3,000 number. Flynn currently owns two $5,000 limousines. I wonder where he will go from there?

Moviettes are not above accepting unemployment pay. "It is docked off our salaries, so why shouldn't we collect when we're out of work?" Helen Vinson wanted to know. Recently spotted "collecting"—Anita Louise, Smith Ballew and Sonja Henie's stand-in.

Christmas Time Is Housewife's Most Important Social Season

By Sally Saver.

Ahead of the housekeeper is the most important social season. There will be many parties at Christmas time and of course, you will want to have your share of them. You will choose the type of entertainment to suit yourself and your household arrangements and the friends you want to entertain. Then you will find the problem much simplified by planning your menu well in advance. It is not too early to do that planning now.

Parties that are fun do not attempt to mix every type of person and all ages, indiscriminately. And for this reason it may be advisable, even necessary, to give more than one party. Buffets are a popular form of entertainment and one of the easiest for the hostess. Here is a suggested menu for a Yuletide buffet:

The Buffet.
Escalloped Oysters.
Bread and butter pickles.
Spiced Beef and Onion Slices.
Hot rolls. Butter.
Christmas Cake.
Coffee.

"Afternoon 'at homes' can charmingly take care of a great many visitors and friends, and the following is suggested for afternoon refreshments:

"Afternoon At Home."
Yuletide Punch.
Ham Savory Sandwiches.
Cream-Anchovy Sandwiches.
Bowl of Assorted Fruit.

Uncooked Fondant Nuts.
Then of course, for the night-owls who cannot be corralled for must be the evening party or "get-together." Suitable refreshments for an evening entertainment during any of the daytime parties there is Christmas are these:

Evening Party.
Creamed Turkey or Chicken in Toast Cups.
Cranberry Relish.
Salad Bowl.
Hot Biscuits.
Butter.

Candies.
Coffee or Tea.
Recipes for dishes mentioned follow:

Escalloped Oysters.
6 tablespoons margarine, melted.

3-4 cup dried bread crumbs.
1 pint oysters.
3-4 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon pepper.
4 tablespoons oyster liquid.
2 tablespoons milk or cream.
Add margarine to crumbs. Put a thin layer in bottom of shallow, greased baking dish; cover with oysters and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add oyster liquor and milk. Cover with remaining crumbs. Bake 20 minutes in moderately hot oven. Yield: 6 servings.

Yuletide Punch.
2 quarts sweet cider.
3 1/2 sticks cinnamon.
15 whole cloves.
12 whole allspice.
1 lemon, sliced.
1 orange, sliced.
1 pint ginger ale.

Simmer 1 quart cider with spices for 5 minutes. Place lemon and orange slices, halved, in punch bowl; stick lemon slices with cloves. Strain hot cider over fruit slices in bowl and allow to stand until cool. Add large piece of ice, remaining cider and ginger ale. Serve in punch cups with slice of lemon and minted cherry. Yield 2 1/2 quarts.

Ham Savory Sandwiches.
1 1/2 cups minced cooked ham.
1 1/2 tablespoons grated onion.
4 tablespoons mayonnaise.
Mix ingredients together well. Makes 1 1/2 filling. Cut crust from unsliced whole loaf of bread, white or brown. Slice thin lengthwise and spread each slice with softened butter or margarine. Spread each slice with ham filling, and roll up tightly as for jelly roll. Place in waxed paper and damp towel and put in refrigerator. Slice as needed. Makes approximately 34 small sandwiches.

Teasing Arises From a Sense of Insecurity

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: We are engaged to be married but matters aren't right between us. It's all my fault and because I love him so much I can't hold my tongue when he brags to me about the girls who ask him for dates and flatter him to death. When he does this my imagination runs away with me and we end up in a big quarrel. Yes, I have tried to pass it up as a joke but jealousy won't let me. I shall be grateful for a word that will set us right because I am wretched at the thought of losing him. J. P.

ANSWER: Do you know what a lot of older women don't know; namely, that a teasing, taunting boy friend or husband is not sure of himself or of his place in the affection of the girl he teases and teases; that teasing always arises from a sense of insecurity?

This is definitely true and you may be very sure that when the boy friend comes up with tall tales of girls running after him and beseeching him for dates he's trying to get a rise out of you that will comfort him and prove to him that you adore him.

In all probability he's never had one of the experiences he tells you about and, like every other lie, black or white, his lies set in motion forces that aren't foreseen and can't be stopped and the two of you are off for a big row on the strength of a fairy tale.

Comprehending the motivating causes of the boy friend's abominable habit, you should feel pity and compassion toward him rather than jealousy and anger. Then you are sitting pretty to heal his hurt, restore his confidence and have a little fun while the engagement days are going by.

A few years ago a psychology professor was entertained in a home where the couple had carried over into marriage the habit (formed in their early acquaintance) of scratching and spitting. The husband scratched his wife and she spit at him. The professor being a benevolent gentleman and at the same time a brave one, made occasion during the visit to tell the wife what he had observed; namely that her husband's teasing maddened her and she was taking the sure method of perpetuating it whereas she could put a summary stop to it if she used her wits.

You should see that pair now: on rare occasions when papa succumbs to the old temptation, (old habits are hard to break) mamma gives him the prescribed treatment; a kiss, a pat, a loving smile or a gay laugh as the case calls for. Talk about specific cures for ailments, why quinine for malaria has nothing on the cure for teasing; a bolstering bit of love and flattery accompanied by a kiss. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

MY DAY: Opinion of the Timid Is Suppressed by Fear

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—December 15 will mark the 148th anniversary of the ratification of the bill of rights. I hope that every citizen in this country will read over those first ten amendments to the constitution and keep them constantly in mind.

In Article VI it mentions the fact that in criminal prosecutions the criminal shall have certain rights. I am wondering if in the present day these rights should not be observed for all people, whether accused in a criminal case or whether merely accused through the public press. It seems to me that the right "to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense," would be a safeguard to a great many people today who find themselves suddenly held up as dangerous citizens when they have not had an opportunity to be heard.

If you are not accused of being a Communist these days, you may be a Communist front and now you may be a Communist transmission belt, and these names apply both to individuals and organizations. I don't question that all three kinds of people exist, but I begin to wonder whether some perfectly innocent people may not be suffering because of the fears which are being aroused. Shortly timid people will not dare to stand for the things in which they believe, because some may imagine that they are any one of these three dreadful things, or that they are countenancing them in somebody else.

It is really going to take quite a strong-minded person with a great indifference to what may be said about him to join an organization, even though the objectives as they are presented seem in accordance with his beliefs. Before long, I think we are going to find people saying what a certain lady said to me not long ago: "I hope you will not see Miss —, you know she ran on the Communist ticket." If I had not happened to know that there had been no election and there was no Communist ticket in that place, the warning might have had some effect even on me.

Let's fight realities with all we have. Let's fight for our democracy and our bill of rights, and wherever we find things in which we do not believe, let's be free to express ourselves, but let us pray not to be dominated by fears or disturbed by nightmares.

We saw Bill Robinson last night in "The Hot Mikado," which seems to be a great success, judging by the enthusiasm of the Washington audience. I never considered Washington audiences very enthusiastic, so this was really a great tribute to the performance.

Here Are a Few Suggestions For Men on Your Gift List

By Lillian Mae.

Yes, it is hard—terribly hard—to know just what to buy for him. I've looked and looked, traveling through one shop and then another, trying to discover articles which are DIFFERENT, and yet usable. For, after all, men do like practical things. A few of my finds, I'm passing on to you.

First—and this costs only one dollar—is a new electrical gadget no larger than an electric razor. It presses ties, coat sleeves, trousers, hat brims—and incidentally, does a good job on skirt hems and women's hats, too. All you have to do is hang up the garment to be pressed, plug in the presser, insert the part of the sleeve, trousers, hat brim, skirt—or whatever you are working on—in a groove and pull down with the presser. It's only a minute's work, and it truly does work. Pretty nice for quick use when a rainy day has spoiled the crease and one must look one's best hurriedly.

A trio of good grooming requisites: After-shave lotion, eau de cologne and scalp stimulant in triangular flacons, presented in a band-box smartly decorated with scenes from strictly masculine activities—all for $1.95. There's an attractive shaving bowl made of wood and containing shaving soap that is exactly right. With it is an after-shave lotion which has a pleasant, freshening effect and acts as a mild astringent.

Proper Humidifying of Heated Air Tends to Build Vite

By Dr. William Brady.

Perhaps they were melancholy days a hundred years ago. What with automatic heat control and air conditioning and everything they are comparatively cheerful days now, don't you think? Well, then, if you still insist they are melancholy you can hop in the bus, and travel southwest for a week or so, or ride the train for two or three days, or fly for a few hours and be right back in summer, any time.

Even if you have to stay on the job all winter, there is a simple way to keep the days from being too melancholy and the nights from being too trying throughout the winter. I refer to air conditioning. If an efficient system or equipment for the purpose is not built in your abode or your place of occupation, you can install a simple, practical, efficient humidifier in each or every room where any kind of heating is used. This is the important part of air conditioning—adding sufficient moisture to the air which becomes excessively dried out by any form of artificial heating.

It is not only for physical comfort and good nature that it is worth while. Another benefit, less manifest until you've had a season of experience with it, is the relief proper humidifying of the heated air brings to one with any kind of chronic respiratory trouble, such as rhinitis, sinusitis, bronchitis, laryngitis, and the increase in natural immunity to acute respiratory infections.

Such humidifiers are now obtainable in almost any place, or a man handy with tools can build his own. The thing consists of a metal box or tank with a metal top or cover to exclude dust but with ample openings at the sides for free passage of air. A wire frame supports many folds or loops of absorbent wicking or material like turkish toweling which hangs over the wire so that many loops dip into the water. The box or tank stands on radiator, register, heater or stove, and evaporates a gallon or more of water daily. When enough water is evaporated daily—as a rule 15 or 20 gallons daily is a moderate requirement in a house of average size—the atmosphere will be most comfortable for all occupants if the temperature is not permitted to rise above 70, preferably kept between 65-68 degrees F.

Proper humidifying of artificially heated air in dwelling, office, store or other building, is a definite builder of vite. Preservation of the characteristics of youth... greater pep... more vitality... the highest degree of natural immunity... This attention to proper humidifying, in my opinion, really does tend to maintain natural immunity against cri (kree)—any and all of the common respiratory infections, by keeping the mucous membrane lining the respiratory tract in a more nearly normal state.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Saccharin.

In recent reply to query you stated that up to five grains of saccharin daily is harmless. I have been using saccharin for years, usually two half-grain tablets to a cup of coffee. Some days I have used more than five grains. Understand from my physician that its effect is harmless as long as it is dissolved in a large quantity of liquid. (R. L. K.)

Answer: Your physician is right. I merely mentioned the conclusion reached by investigators 20 years ago—that up to five grains daily may be used with impunity. How much more than that one may safely take, I have no idea. If I wanted six or eight grains a day, or on occasional days, I'd not hesitate to use it.

Freak Hand Bids Produce Varied Opinions

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Let one freak hand find its way into a duplicate tournament and it will produce a varied assortment of opinions as to how it should be bid. Seldom are any two alike. The following hand is a typical example. It was opened at one club, three clubs, four clubs and five clubs.

NORTH.
S-10 7 4
H-K 8 4 3 2
D-10 4
C-A 6 3

S-K J 8 3
H-9 6 5
D-A 9 7 6 2
C-2

SOUTH.
S-9
H-10 7
D-10 8
C-K Q J 10 8 7 4 3

Neither side was vulnerable. Anything might happen with this queer specimen, but the biggest upset occurred when one South player opened three clubs and his partner responded three no-trump, promptly doubled by East.

South figured his partner could use the club suit which was not a bad thought, provided North could reach the hand. But North, playing the hand at three no-trump, failed to reach anything.

West opened the spade 5 and East-West immediately cashed five spade tricks. Five diamond tricks followed and then three heart tricks. The penalty was 2,500 points.

This is not a Culbertson three bid, which today requires a positive setup suit, with no losers, and an outside entry.

An opening five club bid is better and there is no law against opening the bid at four clubs if South happens to be a bit timid about bidding game immediately.

Against a four club opening, at one table, East overbid four no-trump, a positive forcing takeout, requesting partner to go to his best suit. East bid five diamonds and West, figuring South for nothing but a long club suit, went to six diamonds.

South players who opened the bidding at one club, carried the bidding up to five clubs only to have opponents overcall five diamonds and in some instances go on to six diamonds.

So long as the hand is not fitted for three no-trump, a game contract in no-trump should be avoided by opening four clubs, irrespective of the one hundred honors which are not counted in tournament play.

Far-Famed Southern Hospitality To Greet Distinguished Visitors

Many Socialites From Far and Near Arrive To Attend Brilliant Events

Atlanta opens wide her gates today to extend a royal welcome to the name of typical southern hospitality to the throng of prominent visitors lured to the city by the brilliant film premiere of Margaret Mitchell's novel, "Gone With the Wind." Socialites from far and near are arriving hourly by plane, by motor and by train to attend the three-day program of festivities, coincident with the premiere, for Atlanta has declared Roman holiday!

Leaders in the social, cultural and financial circles are listed among the guests who will add color and gaiety to the brilliant occasion. The festive program began yesterday with the arrival of the vanguard of visitors, who dined from luncheons to teas, cocktail parties and dinners planned in their honor.

The highlight of today's calendar is the elaborate Junior League ball to be held at the city auditorium this evening, when more than 5,000 persons will assemble in a setting reproduced from the vivid descriptions in the novel.

Government officials of national importance who will lend an air of dignity to the occasion are Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison and Mrs. Edison, of Washington, D. C., who are guests in the city of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Robert Jr. at the Georgian Terrace hotel. Other guests in the Robert party who are nationally known figures are former Senator William C. Invited to meet Miss Block were the members of the Debutant Committee.

Her "Calling Gown" - - - - - Her "Carriage Coat"

When Miss Peggy Dutton attends the Junior League's brilliant "Gone With the Wind" ball this evening, she will wear the handsome gown in which she is pictured at the left. Fashioned of robin's egg blue satin and velvet, the gown formerly belonged to the late Mrs. Morton Richard Emmons, beloved Atlanta and mother of Mrs. Paul Berman, who loaned the gown to Miss Dutton. Mrs. Emmons used it as her "calling gown" back in the gay nineties, when formal calls on one's friends were the popular social custom. Over the gown Miss Dutton will wear Mrs. Emmons' "carriage coat," in which she is pictured at the right. It is fashioned of heavy mahogany-colored plush and is braided in a black braid design. Both costumes were made by Chamberlain-Johnson-Dubose Company, which for a number of years was one of Atlanta's leading dress emporiums and department stores. Miss Dutton, the lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer C. Dutton, is a popular debutante.

'Christmas at Tara' To Be Theme Of Better Films Group Luncheon

The Better Films Luncheon at the Athletic Club tomorrow at 1 o'clock will be another effort in the three-day "Gone With the Wind" festival to welcome the visiting Hollywood stars, the Governors and visitors from many states. Eight hundred guests will attend, and with every other function of the three-day "Gone With the Wind" festival, tickets for this luncheon soon were exhausted, without one at present being available.

The Better Films committee with its characteristic civic pride has arranged this luncheon as another gesture of friendship to Atlanta's visitors.

The unique decorations at the luncheon will carry out the idea of "Christmas at Tara" before the hard days of the war came. Traditional hospitality of the old and new south will greet the visitors.

Seated at the speakers' table with the Hollywood stars will be Governor and Mrs. Rivers; Governor and Mrs. Cox, and their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Cox Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. Valentine Hollingsworth, of Boston, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay Plan Breakfast For Important Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Ryburn Clay entertain at breakfast this evening at the Capital City Club as a complimentary gesture to prominent visitors and their hosts. The event follows the Junior League's costume ball and will be among the highlights on the social calendar. Honor guests are former Governor James M. Cox and Mrs. Cox, Miss Anne Cox, of Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Valentine Hollingsworth, of Boston, Mass., who are visiting Mrs. Campbell McKenna, as well as Mrs. Julia Peterkin, of Fort Mott, S. C., and Miss Eleanor LeMaster, of New York, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Neely, and Mrs. Dan Mahoney, of Miami, Fla. Invited to meet them are Mr. and Mrs. Steve Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Rogers, Mrs. Louis Jeffries, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Whitman McGonigal, Marion Smith, Selma White, of Barrington, Ill.; Richard Courts, and Smythe Gambrell, Orme Campbell, R. M. Harris, Daniel Whitehead Hickey, Charles Dannels Jr. and Charles Willis.

Additional Parties Are Planned In Honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howe

Additional parties are being planned daily in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Philip Howe, of Jacksonville, Fla., who arrive today to be the fete guests of Mr. and Mrs. Claude McGinnis Jr. Tomorrow at the cocktail hour Mr. and Mrs. Preston Arkwright Jr. will entertain in honor of these visitors at their home on the Northside drive, the affair to assemble prominent members of Atlanta society and a group of distinguished guests from a distance.

On Saturday Mr. and Mrs. William A. Parker Jr. will be hosts at a breakfast to be given in the new crystal room of the Capital City Club, with Mr. and Mrs. Howe as central figures. Saturday evening they will share honors with Mr. and Mrs. William S. Culbertson, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Medley Whelpley, of New York, who will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ashcraft, at a dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Ashcraft at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Porter have planned a dinner for Friday evening in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ashcraft's guests. The affair will precede the premiere of "Gone With the Wind" and will be held in the crystal room of the Capital City Club.

Miss Ingram Dons "Old Gray Bonnet."

WHEN Grace Irwin married Frank Golden in Madison in 1840, a handsome green and bronze taffeta dress was in her trousseau. Titian-haired and green-eyed Mary McGahey is attired in this same dress, and will wear it to the ball. Note the wide sweep of the skirt, the rows of silk fringe on the long sleeves and basque, and tassels dangling on the front of the form-fitting basque.

Note the hand-spanable waistline, because pretty little Mary confesses she has to hold her breath to have the basque hooked up the front when she puts on the dress. The gold-framed miniature pinned at the high neckline contains a likeness of Patrick Haden, one of the first merchants to open a drygoods store in Atlanta, which was known later as Keely Company. Mr. Haden was the brother-in-law of Mrs. Golden, the mother of Frank Golden, who lives at East Lake.

MRS. FRANCES GORDON SMITH will motor from Covington to attend the Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" costume ball and the moving picture premiere of the adaptation of Margaret Mitchell's world-famous book. She is the daughter of General John B. Gordon, known in Confederate history as the "Man of the Twelfth of May."

The equestrian statue of her distinguished father stands on the state capital grounds at the intersection of Washington and Hunter streets. During Mrs. Gordon-Smith's young ladyhood, her father was governor of the commonwealth of Georgia, and his family lived in the executive mansion when it stood on the site of the Henry Grady hotel.

Mrs. Smith owns an attractive home in Augusta, which is beautified with priceless heirlooms, and the windows look out on a beautiful garden, enclosed with a white picket fence. She is spending the winter in Covington, one of the most interesting little towns on the Georgia railway, which boasts of plantations dating their family ownership to long before the War Between the States.

BIRMINGHAM society will be represented at the "Gone With the Wind" costume ball by premiere by Alice Jones, who will visit Mrs. William P. Ballard, and will wear a charming costume for the festive occasion.

It was witty and clever: Adele Allerhand, of Birmingham, who said, "Now that the Atlanta date for 'Gone With the Wind' approaches, 'Scarlett' fever rages in earnest and the entire fashion world begins to see 'Scarlett'!"

Among the many gowns and costumes of historic interest to be worn to the ball this evening are those of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tappan. The couple drove to their ante-bellum home in Greene county Saturday to assemble their costumes for the ball.

Mrs. Tappan is the grandniece of General W. H. Walker, who gave his life in the Battle of Atlanta, and she is also a great-granddaughter of Georgia's first senator, Freeman Walker.

From the attic in the old home, Mrs. Tappan assembled ancestral clothes and jewelry, with the result that she will wear an old-fashioned dress featuring a basque waist and full skirt posed over three large ruffled petticoats. She will wear an exquisite lace mantilla and antique jewelry, consisting of a brooch, necklace, earrings, and bracelets. Mr. Tappan will wear a traditional coat, tie, vest and tight trousers in the style of the sixties. He will wear a high silk hat and carry a cane.

ALTHOUGH they spent a far too short visit here, the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Edward

After their marriage, the couple came to Atlanta and moved in social and cultural circles of the highest order. Soft-voiced and well-mannered little Miss Sage became a prominent and influential leader in patriotic and genealogical societies. Her prominence in Colonial Dames of America delegated her to represent Georgia at President McKinley's brilliant inaugural ball.

Mrs. Sage repeatedly expressed the wish that her namesake granddaughter be married in the dress, which may serve the purpose whenever Margaret decides to tread the orange blossom trail. The Junior League's "Gone With the Wind" costume ball provided inspiration for the prized heirloom to be unpacked and pressed into service again.

Margaret posed for The Constitution photographer as she paused in the Georgian Terrace attired in her grandmother's dress. The ball will reflect the bygone era when glamorous southern women wore voluminous-skirted dresses with form-fitting basques, hoop skirts and crinoline petticoats with great distinction.

Atlanta D. A. R. To Meet Tomorrow.

The Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., meets Friday at 3 o'clock at Craigie House.

One of the golden jubilee projects of D. A. R. is the planting of the Penny Pine. Each chapter throughout the country is to plant an acre of pines. Mrs. Stanley Moore, conservation chairman of the Atlanta chapter, will present a showing of a short picture of the national forests. The picture will be explained by Mrs. A. B. de Jarnette, of the forestry department.

Miss Dorothy Waldman, concert pianist and the great-granddaughter of the Rev. Samuel Francis Smith, who wrote "America," will give a program of Christmas music. Tea will be served by Miss Willie Fort Williams and her hospitality committee.

Amateur Writers Meet

Amateur Writers' Club meets this evening in room 101 of the University of Georgia Evening School, from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. Flora Buffington, president, will preside.

The subject for discussion is "Action versus Emotion." The announcement will be made of the winners in the recent story contest. The Criticism group will meet from 7 to 8 o'clock.

Prather, of Beverly Hills, Cal., was the signal for several informal social gatherings. The Prathers spent much of their time with their devoted friend, Mrs. Oda T. Spier, at the Biltmore hotel. Mrs. Prather is the former Florence Monroe,

Problem of Transport

Most recent developments in the newest stage of the Second World War in Europe indicate an even closer alliance, if possible, between Germany and Russia than has hitherto existed.

Outraged by the unwarranted attack on Finland, outstanding example of neutrality, the entire world, almost without exception, unites in condemning Stalin and the Soviet. This condemnation is taking form in denunciation by the League of Nations which, for this occasion at least, has aroused from almost moribund inactivity. Expulsion of Russia from the league with Britain and France taking leading part in that action, will admittedly throw Russia more certainly into the arms of Germany. Which can mean only one thing, that the Western nations in their fight to save the democratic ideal of human liberty from the gangsterism and slavery of totalitarianism, will have to combat not only the Nazi forces but the hordes of Soviet troops as well.

Yet, considering actual conditions, this may not prove as advantageous to Germany, or to Russia, as it appears at first glance. For it is difficult to see how Russia, with all her resources, can give much aid in the war in the West, at least not for years to come.

It must be remembered that modern war depends far more upon materials than upon man power. Raw materials out of which the machinery of war may be created will be, beyond argument, the deciding factor. And the advantage in that respect is still preponderantly with the Allies, despite Russian aid to Germany.

The Allied blockade has, according to Professor Bruce C. Hopper, of Harvard University, who has spent several years since the World War doing economic research in Russia, cut off 45 per cent of Germany's normal imports. The new export blockade will undoubtedly increase this economic pressure.

Germany, even in normal times of peace, has always had to import a large portion of the most essential supplies for her war machine. She lacks oil, manganese, fats, iron ore, to name four of the most important materials. Cut off from most other sources of supply, she can look only to Russia to make up these deficiencies, as well as to furnish the vastly greater quantities needed in wartime.

And the difficulty is that Russia has no adequate railroad lines on which to transport these badly needed supplies to her Nazi ally.

Likewise it must be remembered that, although Russia is rich in undeveloped natural resources, her actual production is barely sufficient today to supply her own needs. Her surplus of iron ore production, for instance, over her own needs in 1938 was only one per cent; her surplus of manganese ore was 1,000,000 tons, while oil production is barely sufficient for her own requirements. Recurring fuel shortages have seriously handicapped the community tractor stations which serve the collective farms.

But it is in transportation that the real difficulty lies. Germany, for instance, needs 8,000,000 tons of oil every year. This, if it came at all, would have to be moved from the Caucasus. Single track railroad is the chief means of transport and it would require at least 55,000 tank cars for the annual job. Russia has less than half this number, all told.

Fats might be replaced by the importation of approximately two and a half million tons of soy beans from Manchuria, a distance of 4,300 miles. It would require, however, 16,250 freight cars in constant, full load service. And to move the amount of manganese ore required by Germany would call for 3,000 freight cars.

It is estimated that, at the fastest, Germany would require two years or more to increase Russian production and build the needed railroad lines, before she could avail herself of her ally's material resources. That, too, does not take into consideration the need for materials and men to make such a development.

And it is scarcely conceivable to imagine that Germany can hold out for two years against the steadily increasing strangulation of the Allied blockade, to say nothing of the constant threat of smashing blows, either by land or sea or air, from the West.

Russia has almost unlimited man power but, with no possibility of providing materials, equipment or transportation to use that man power effectively in the West, her help to Germany at this time does not appear very valuable.

International Drug Traffic

The League of Nations, contrary to popular belief, performs many valuable functions in addition to trying to "keep the world at peace." Among its contributions to civilization is an attempted control of the narcotic traffic of its member nations.

It is not definitely known how well the League is succeeding in this important work, for the reason that drug purveyors are among the most difficult of all criminals to apprehend. They lack nothing in ingenuity when it comes to distributing their wares.

A report has just been made to the League narcotic committee of a clever scheme to keep the supply of drugs moving into Egypt. An Egyptian policeman, in disguise, offered to buy a mangy old camel for 20 times its reasonable value, but the owner refused to sell at any price. The man, who, of course, was under suspicion, was promptly arrested.

The aged camel was killed, dissected and its stomach was found to be almost filled with zinc cylinders containing narcotics. The animal had been forced to swallow the cylinders by Arab smugglers. The scheme to bring in the drugs was discovered when it was noticed that numerous decrepit camels were being driven from Palestine into Egypt without logical reason.

Following the discovery, 18 more ancient camels were put to death and their stomachs opened. This resulted in the discovery of 164 pounds of narcotics, a tremendous haul in volume as well as in value.

It is doubtful if anybody, not excepting those engaged in this wretched business, knew the ultimate destination of this huge supply of narcotics. So, for all one knows, such a haul could have a beneficial effect even in the remotest corners of the United States. In this respect the League is doubtless supervising an excellent piece of work for the benefit of all nations, even those which are not members.

The Man Past 55

Electrical workers in New York who are more than 55 years of age have been given marvelous opportunity to demonstrate to employment directors all over the country that old men can be just as valuable, as workers, as youngsters of half, or less than half, their age.

In a new contract between the Electrical Workers (AFL) union and the New York Electrical Contractors Association a clause was included which provides that, out of every 11 men employed, at least one shall be 55 years of age or more. It is described as an attempt to relieve unemployment among older workers.

It may well be, however, an employment test tube watched by employers and unemployed alike, all over America. That it can afford vital help to the older men seeking jobs is self-evident.

The growth of organized movements, "More than Forty" clubs, etc., is one of the striking economic phenomena of the age. That there should be required any special effort to find employment for men who have passed their fortieth birthdays would seem to be critical reflection upon the intelligence of employment officers in business and industry alike.

For the man in his forties and fifties should be, and usually is, the most valued employee of all, in most lines of work. He combines experience with technical knowledge that the youth cannot possibly hope to achieve until he, too, has reached the more mature years. The man of 50, or 55, with capacity for executive leadership should be in greatest demand of all, if he will sincerely use his talents to the utmost.

The 55-year-old electrical workers of New York have been given splendid opportunity to prove this, for all the unemployed in the nation. Records of their effectiveness as workers should be kept and, when time permits comprehensive review, made public.

After 28 days on a reduction diet, an Ohio woman disappeared. There is probably a lesson in this. A word to the wise is sufficient.

In Hungary, one given up for dead sat up suddenly at the wake. And guess who else has come back to life lately—at Geneva!

Of course, the dictator knows his sheep, and yet we don't see how Stalin can sell the Finnish menace to any Russian who can count.

When a flood receded in Australia, hundreds of fish were left flat on a racetrack. If there had been no flood it would have been the same.

Before the World War, they used to think the beer-drinkers were the peace-lovers. Until Joe Stalin came along, we loved to see a man smoke a pipe.

The London spectator solicits lists of six words that can best be spared from our overcrowded language. Maybe we should contact London and give it "contact."

Editorial of the Day

(From The Times-Picayune.)

No matter how loudly Governor Earl K. Long mouths his purpose to "do right," his professions to that effect are belied and mocked by his own actions and the actions of his overlord, underlings and other political associates. The refusal to let the people of Louisiana inspect vital public records; the hasty stoppage by extraordinary and high-handed methods of the open-court re-investigation of the Orleans tax reduction scandal; the measures employed to handcuff courageous grand jurors elsewhere in the state and obstruct or nullify their investigations—these certainly are not the practices of an individual official, or an administration, or a political machine, that wants to "do right."

Further evidence that the Earl Long administration, its methods, backers and purposes are in essentials precisely like those of the Leche administration is supplied by its hand-picked legislative candidates here in Orleans and elsewhere over the state.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

POLITICIANS DISLIKE DEWEY WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Thomas E. Dewey's immediate future hinges on a single question. Can he make enough impression on the stump to overcome the average politician's distaste for him? To persuade the hungry, hard-boiled men at the Republican national convention to name him for the presidency, he will have to look like an odds-on bet.

Dewey must look better than his competitors for a simple reason. His practical drawback as a candidate is not that he is too young, or too inexperienced in national affairs, or known too exclusively as a gang-buster, although these considerations must be weighed. His drawback is that the boys in the organizations suspect he plays the game strictly according to his own rules. They want someone easy to get along with, and they fear Dewey would prove headstrong, egotistical and hard to manage.

This opinion of Dewey, now common among Republican leaders all over the country, emanates from Dewey's own state. Dewey has his ardent admirers in New York, like the Nassau county leader, J. Russell Sprague, who is managing his campaign. But the majority of New York Republicans energetically detest him. Dislike for Dewey unites men as different as the New York county leader, Kenneth Simpson, who is publicly on good terms with him; New York's great park commissioner, Robert L. Moses, and New York's most distinguished conservative, Representative James W. Wadsworth.

UNHAPPY NEW YORKERS In fact, the New York situation is a smaller version of the situation Dewey must meet in the country. Most of the New Yorkers who privately curse him will be casting their votes for Dewey and carrying Dewey banners when convention time comes. Although a small number of anti-Dewey delegates will get behind the upstate publisher, Frank Gannett, the vast majority of the delegation will be pledged to Dewey. This is because he managed to make himself the state's outstanding candidate by his conduct of the district attorney's office and his campaign for the governorship. The New Yorkers could not go anywhere else.

At the same time, even in New York, Dewey's position is far from secure. For example, Ken Simpson and Dewey made up their minds to attend a night-long peace conference. When the pair parted toward 4 a. m., Dewey had agreed not to attack Simpson's leadership, and Simpson had promised that his delegates would be for Dewey. But Dewey's original desire had been to pick the New York city delegates himself, and this he did not achieve. They will not be Dewey men. They will be Simpson men voting for Dewey, which means that, unless Dewey goes over with a bang at the start, Simpson will be able to trade with other candidates.

TWO SENATORS The candidates who may expect to gain from the politicians' dislike for Dewey are the two senators, Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, and Arthur C. Vandenberg, of Michigan. Taft already has an impressive, smoothly working organization, centering around the former assistant secretary of the navy for air, David S. Ingalls, former Representative John Hollister and other Ohio friends. He is actively seeking delegates and has got a good many. Since his slump at the time of his Gridiron speech last spring, Taft has come up again immensely.

He is close to Herbert Hoover, who should exercise considerable influence, and he is known as a good party man. If the President runs again, Taft's chances will be pretty poor. In that case, the Republicans will want a personality candidate, and Taft does not put himself over well. Yet, as a sound, solid, able and well-tested man, Taft will have great appeal as an alternative to Dewey. Then, if both Taft and Dewey fail to pull it off, there is Vandenberg waiting to be tapped. This is the Vandenbergian strategy, as revealed to date. Outside Michigan, there is no scramble for Vandenberg delegates. Beyond the simple necessities, no elaborate Vandenberg organization is being put together. Vandenberg is shrewdly making and keeping friends in both Taft and Dewey camps and, when the time comes, he will be extremely available. At present, wisecracks are betting on Vandenberg because they think his strategy is shrewd.

FOR THE FUTURE All of which only means that the Republican future will be excessively murky until Dewey is further along with his series of speeches. His first, though limited to a general statement of his position, was finely written, finely delivered, and pretty well received. If his successors are good enough, Dewey may go into the convention looking like an obvious winner. If he looks that way, he will win. If he doesn't, he may be counted out, and the field will be open.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Birth of A Star.

The death of Douglas Fairbanks Sr., recalls memories of a long time ago, before that name had arisen upon the amusement firmament and when your Silhouette was much more familiar with current news of the stage than he is today. Of a day, in fact, when movies were almost unknown and when a theater meant a real theater, not a place with a white screen at one end.

In those days a new comedy was produced on Broadway. It was titled "The Gentleman from Mississippi," and its scenes were laid in Washington, the senate, in fact. (Incidentally, a very different type of story to the recent Capra opus, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington.")

Tom Wise, in the role of the senator from Mississippi, was the star when opening night rolled around. And he was fine.

But there was a member of the supporting cast who made his reputation in that show. He had, at the opening, a comparatively minor role. That of the senator's secretary. But such a hit did the youngster make, there was some hurried re-writing, the part of the secretary was made much more important all the time—and the previously unknown young actor who played the part found his name in lights, on the front of the theater, as big as that of Tom Wise. Co-starred, in fact, Tom Wise and Douglas Fairbanks in "The Gentleman from Mississippi."

So Now, He's Gone.

Doug Fairbanks Sr., contributed as much as any individual to the advancement of the screen of his day. Some of his pictures, in the silent era, were magnificent. I'll always think "Robin Hood" was the best of 'em all.

But I think my favorite memory will be of "The Gentleman from Mississippi," the stage show in which I first saw him. There it was that play, where some of the jokes have grown hackneyed, by repetition, since, but they were original, new, when we heard them that night. For instance:

"As honest as the day is long—but the days grow shorter when congress meets." Spoken of a congressman-clerk.

And that scene when the white-haired senator from Mississippi, in his Washington hotel apartment, is going over the monthly bills with his secretary.

There is an item totaling some $16 or $18 for shirts, hose, ties, etc. The senator raves and storms about it, as being too big. "Outrageous," he shouts at his secretary. "A damned hold-up. Profiteering by gad." The secretary says nothing and the senator finally concedes, "Oh, well, I suppose it must be paid. Send a check. Though I hate to submit to such gouging."

Then comes a bill from the liquor store, for so much Scotch, rye, Bourbon, etc. Total, something in the neighborhood of $57.

"Very reasonable. Very reasonable," murmurs the senator. "Send 'em a check."

So Many From Stage.

In the early days of the movies, in the period when Fairbanks was at his peak of popularity, so many of the favorites of the screen came from the stage. Best place to look for them, I guess.

There was Dustin Farnum, for instance. And Charlie Chaplin. I can remember seeing Chaplin as the drunk in Fred Karno's act, long before nickelodeons had been conceived.

But I don't think Mary Pickford was ever on the stage, at least not prior to her screen fame. She was the first movie star. Known for a long time only as "Biograph Mary." For she appeared in Biograph pictures and it was the public who recognized her from one film to another, who practically forced disclosure of her name and identity at a time when casts were never given with picture announcements.

And I don't think John Bunny or Flora Finch were known for stage work. But they were the top-ranking comedy stars of the screen, so quarter-century ago.

But Bill Hart, greatest western star who ever galloped across a location, played for years in "Ben Hur" upon the stage. Did you know that?

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Monday, December 14, 1914:

Washington, December 13.—Assuming that for the first time since its organization by Benjamin Franklin the post office department is on a self-sustaining basis, Postmaster General Burleson submitted to President Wilson today his annual report.

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Saturday, December 14, 1889:

(Special.)—Mr. Henry W. Grady's great speech, delivered in Boston last night, is largely quoted in nearly all the New York papers today, and is highly praised editorially.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Contrast WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The dignity of In Types. The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics is personified in the United States by Constantine Umansky, a former journalist, propagandist and press censor and occasional interpreter for Josef Stalin. He is small and may be described as prepossessing only a ruthless sacrifice of candor. For contrast he may be compared to Hjalmar Procope, the Finnish minister—a tall, handsome man of around 40 years, with a brave, mainly bearing and a following in Washington which amounts to a menace to American neutrality on the present stage of the second world war, they personify their respective countries so accurately.

Mr. Umansky's personality is not endearing, and his reputation has been heightened not only by the memoirs of those who knew him as a pushful, opportunist clerk in Moscow when he was worming his way through the government bureaus but also by events parallel to his services here. The mere sight or mention of his excellency—a title which suggests more of sarcasm than of ceremony—stirs recollection of his former chief and predecessor, Alexander Troyanovsky, once an officer in the Czar's cavalry.

Troyanovsky was recalled to Russia, and, although he has not yet been shot, his status apparently amounts to open arrest. Doubtless Umansky himself will be recalled back one day and, not unthinkably, stood against a wall, like so many of his late colleagues in the service of the new Czar. To say that such a routine move in the Moscow foreign office would wet a single eye in Washington, Moscow or anywhere else would be to venture into prophecy and irresponsible opinion. It is much less chance, however, to predict that he, in his turn, will be recalled, undone by the spying and whispering of confidants in his own household in the big, rich embassy behind the red curtains, for that is the tradition of the corps which he adorns.

Expect As for Troyanovsky, sky, though he did something, he has charm and treachery, for lack of a more precise word, may be set down as decency, it can only be said that his removal and such a reversal as may have befallen him in Moscow serve him damn well right. A man of his intelligence and advantages must have known that he was slumming and that he must expect treachery.

He once appeared at a formal dinner in white tie and tails, while Comrade Earl Browder, seated down the board, wore a common business suit and bounced out before the meal was over in exasperation over remarks flung at him by Norman Thomas, one chair removed. Comrade Browder's attire and conduct that evening seemed ominous for Comrade Troyanovsky. Good manners are a serious deviation from the party line, and Troyanovsky not only behaved acceptably in Washington but gave scandal by associating with the Bourgeoisie in the little resort town of Sarasota, Fla., in winter.

The Soviet ambassador should not make a mug of the first comrade of the American branch of the conspiracy, but no doubt Troyanovsky did find unbearable the company of his comrades in the United States of America and crossed the line in sheer desperation. Indeed, most of them break out whenever other people will have them.

Other Comrade Umansky runs less risk of deviation in the same manner, but there are other fields in which one may be guilty of grave—indeed, even fatal—error in the Soviet foreign service. One may be guilty of racial fault, as the new German comrades of the Moscow government would put it, and many of those who have been liquidated in the last few years were guilty of that fault, whatever else they may have been accused of.

Comrade Umansky's closest colleague, in the political sense, is Comrade Thomsen, the Soviet diplomat might be picked for liquidation as a gesture of solidarity with Berlin.

Irresistibly the thought of His Excellency Umansky and Dr. Procope, of Finland, conjures the spectacle of Umansky's country assaulting Procope's. And this, in turn, suggests a mental picture of a more intimate conflict—a personal one between Umansky and the manly, honest, clean-scrubbed Finn. That is a beautiful picture, suitable for framing.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

AH, YOU SOUTHERNERS! Tonight at our own hall we have the ball, attended by Rhet Butler and Scarlett O'Hara, a couple of persons from that new pushing Atlanta which grew out of the ashes of Sherman's fire. A nice enough man, the general, but a little careless with fire.

A deal of effort has been made to "understand" this south which came after the war between cotton and industry. The south is like a woman, difficult to understand, and yet, not too difficult. If the research persons once were to get by the fried-chicken, honey-chile, my-mammy, banjo-tune, magnolia-blossom approach it would not be at all difficult.

Also, if the research visitors would forget to say, "Ah, you southerners! If you'd only forget Appomattox!" That isn't it. The average school child in the south today doesn't absorb much about the war. There are, of course, the battlefields at hand and one still can pick up shell fragments and old minnie balls. So, there is of necessity, an awareness of the War Between the States.

It isn't the memory of Appomattox or of Lee or Sherman which has affected and, in a sense, directed the political and economic development of the south.

YESTERDAY AND TODAY When the war was done the south was faced with the necessity of changing from a semi-feudal way of life and economy, to the industrial economy.

The south was, of course, a conquered nation. It was so treated. Those who shudder with horror at the occupation of Austria and of Czechoslovakia and the military dictatorship which has filled prisons and concentration camps, would do well to recall what happened in the south.

The south accepted, first of all, the verdict of Appomattox. There were no "underground" movements seeking to resume the fight or to overthrow the government.

The south began, and Scarlett O'Hara is an individual example, the effort to adjust itself to the new way of life and to the new economy.

It began this under as cruel and as despotic a military dictatorship as ever existed, as cruel and as despotic as any established by Adolf Hitler. Let us be honest. It wiped out all civil rights. It took life and property. There was no legal recourse left the people. It was, for years, as bad and often worse, than anything imposed by Germany.

How long did it exist? A few weeks? A few months? Not at all. For years. In some places for as long as 11 years. It was under this sort of a government the south began to make the transition from the semi-feudal days of slavery and a cotton economy, to the industrial economy.

It was not Appomattox or Sherman which affected the political and economic trends of the south, except that they, one the site of the south, brought an end to the way of life and economy.

It was this long struggle under a tyranny and a dictatorship which molded the political mind of the south; which delayed and starved its economic adjustment.

OVER LONG AGO? But, the research person may protest, all that was over long ago.

Not at all. The south was, for a decade or more, governed as a conquered province. For more than 70 years the government of the United States, as it has affected the economics of the nation, has treated the south as if it were a colonial possession.

This is not an exaggeration. Indeed, just a week ago there was handed down a decision which illustrates the point. The south often is accused of fostering sectionalism.

The Interstate Commerce Commission last week handed down a decision giving the south parity on freight rates for certain articles. Parity does not exist for many others. This freight rate differential for years held a tariff wall in front of the south, was a tariff by a United States commission, unfairly and without reason penalizing the south.

For every dollar the northern producer had to pay to get his goods to market by rail, the southern manufacturer of the same articles, had to pay all the way from $1.05 to $1.60.

Fair? Not at all. Unjust? Of course. Imposed by whom? The United States government.

What removed it, in part? Sectionalism. It is an ironic thing to say, but a true thing. Not until several southerners were named to the commission and others from the west, which also was penalized on behalf of the industrial east, was parity last week obtained for a few manufactured articles.

The south is not difficult to understand. Those visitors who do not go beyond the veil of barbecue, mammy songs, fried chicken and a recipe for a mint julep, never know the south.

It is, really, comparatively easy to understand why southern thinking and politics have been different.

He Wins Who Has One Shot Left When the Other's Gun Is Empty

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In a world where nothing is certain but change, nobody can insure his future safety; but it is possible, by analyzing present conditions and trends, to anticipate logical developments and thus avoid unnecessary risks and hurts.

Since the war began, Americans find themselves in the unhappy position of innocent bystanders caught on the street when rival gangs decide to shoot it out. Something is certain to hit them.

But it isn't as simple as that. If one side wins, civilization will continue to develop by the old pattern, and the life of Americans will continue much as it was, except for the inescapable burden of sharing the cost of the war. If the other side wins, the old way of life will be gone for centuries, if not forever; for all other nations will hasten to make terms with the victor; the totalitarian system will dominate most of the earth; and the best Americans can hope for will be an era of grim and armed-to-the-teeth watchfulness and strain, while enemies at home and abroad scheme and strive to destroy what is left of democracy.

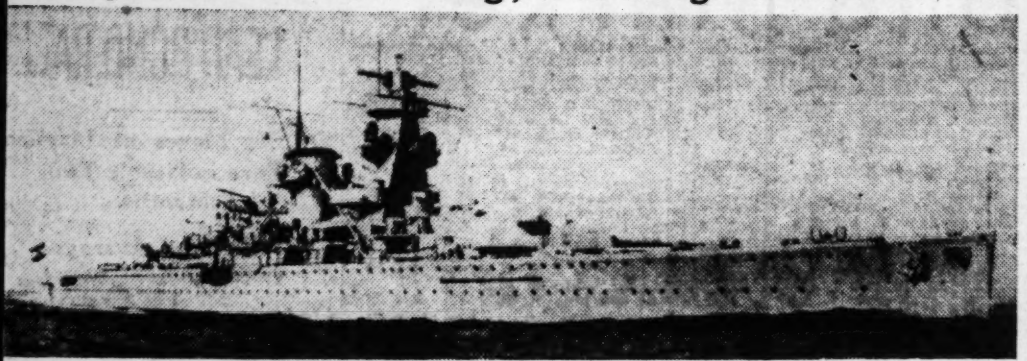

Therefore, all plans for the future must wait upon an answer to the question: "Can Germany win?"

Germany cannot win if the war is long continued, but her leaders have no intention of permitting it to last. For six years they have strained every resource of the nation to prepare for a quick triumph. They have spent $36,000,000,000 building frontier forts, military roads, artillery, ammunition, military planes, submarines, mines and commerce raiders, tanks, and stores for an army of mines and commerce raiders, tanks, and stores for an army.

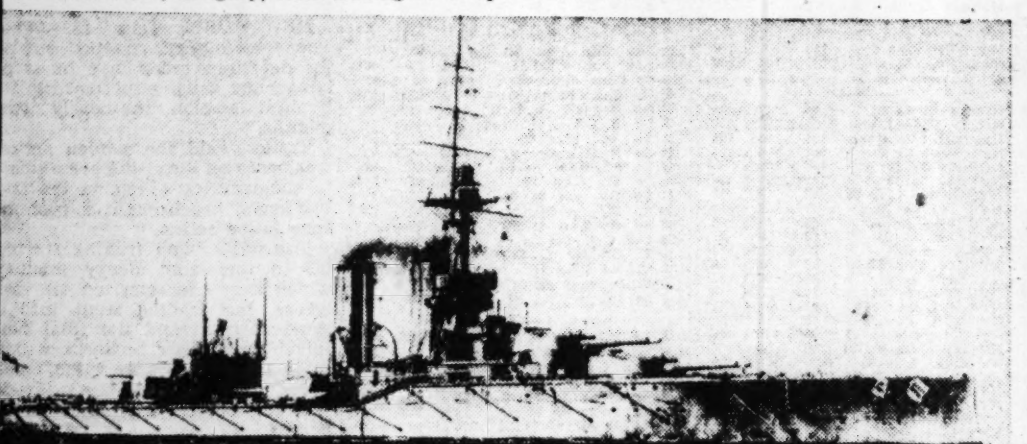

The Allies hope to win by the ancient method of siege—to hold Germany on the western front and starve her out.

The hope of the Germans is similar. With their superior air force they might win initial advantage in a bombing contest, but the Allies would outlast them, for they are short of gasoline. Unless they violate Holland, Belgium or Switzerland, they must win, if at all, by using submarines and mines to cut off Britain's supplies, and they must do it before their own supplies are exhausted. A year at most should tell us the shape of our own future.

"EPISODES"

Driving along to a funeral Monday morning, between 10 and 11 o'clock, I turned on the radio in my car to see if I could pick up a news broadcast, and as I switched from one to another station, I found myself in the midst of three different "episodes," as the unctuous announcers explained. I listened to a few lines of each of these "episodes," quite long enough to discover that in each instance the whole theme was built around the idea of infidelity on the part of husbands and wives, and each program went off the air with a definite promise

SISTER OF MERCY
DIES AT INFIRMARY

Sister Mary Theresa's Rites Will Be Held Tomorrow at St. Joseph's Chapel.

Sister Mary Theresa Byerly, 46, a member of the Sisters of Mercy since 1922, died yesterday at St. Joseph's infirmary.

Member of a pioneer Atlanta family, Sister Theresa had spent most of her religious life at St. Joseph's infirmary here.

She made her novitiate in Savannah and was professed into the Sisters of Mercy in 1922. During the following two years she taught school at St. Vincent's Academy, in Savannah, coming to St. Joseph's infirmary here in 1924.

Her only survivor is one brother, William Byerly, formerly of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at a requiem mass at the chapel of St. Joseph's infirmary. The Rev. Father James T. Reilly, S. M., will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery under the direction of Sam R. Greenberg.

Dameron Black Is Elected
To Head Clearing House

Herman Jones Jr., T. I. Miller and W. C. Adamson Other Officers.

Dameron Black, vice president and secretary-treasurer of the Trust Company of Georgia, was elected president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association, it was announced yesterday following the association's annual meeting.

Herman Jones Jr., official of the First National Bank, was named vice president; Thomas I. Miller, of the Citizens & Southern National Bank, treasurer, and William C. Adamson, of the First National Bank, secretary.

Mr. Black entered the banking business March 1, 1923, when he became connected with the Trust Company of Georgia, with which institution he has been identified continuously as an executive since that time. He was qualified as a certified public accountant in 1906, in which capacity he served until the World War, when he became federal auditor for several railroad lines.

Mr. Black's duties as president of the Atlanta Clearing House Association begin January 1.

GIVE YOURSELF
FINANCIAL EASE OF MIND FOR CHRISTMAS

"Mr. Kemp, I'd like for you to tell people who are in debt, and naturally short of Christmas cash, how they can give themselves a real Christmas present."

"Alright, Mr. Reporter, that's easy. The best Christmas present for a man with money worries, is financial ease of mind—a chance to get out from under the burden of many debts—and the obtaining of Christmas cash, too. The Industrial Loan and Security Company will loan any reliable person.

$50 to $1,000 at once!

"They immediately provide enough money in one loan to pay up long standing bills—enabling the person to rid himself of many pesky collectors. Also, included in the loan is money for Christmas needs, thereby helping to make an all around happier Christmas."

"It's good, practical sense to get a loan from the Industrial Loan and Security Company. Money from one loan pays up all back bills—and leaves only one payment—the monthly loan payment—to be met only once a month. Too, the amount of the payment is definitely less than any average sum which may have previously been put aside from home budget money in hopes to meet the numerous bills. That's real convenience, and one, simple—easy to obtain loan does the job."

"Here's all the person has to do to get the money. Come down to the Industrial Loan and Security Company—state money needs—in strict confidence and complete privacy; sign a personal note or offer collateral of reasonable value—and walk out of the office with all the money he needs. Interest rates are low—and terms are from 6 months to 2 full years."

"Every man owes himself financial ease of mind for Christmas. He not only helps himself—but will enable his whole family to have a brighter, more prosperous Christmas—and remember—THE MONEY IS EASY TO GET."

This is one of a series of advertisements covering interviews with Mr. Wilson Kemp. He is executive vice president in charge of the Industrial Loan and Security Co., 218 Grant Bldg. He will gladly advise you on money needs. See him right away. —(adv.)

TOWERS PROMOTED TO REAR ADMIRAL

Georgian Gets Rank Now Held Temporarily as Navy Air Chief.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—President Roosevelt approved today the future promotion of 12 naval captains to the rank of rear admiral.

The promotions will be made as vacancies occur.

Heading the list was the chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics, John Henry Towers, known as "the navy's No. 1 flyer," who already holds rear admiral rank temporarily.

Towers, a native of Rome, Ga., attended Georgia Tech and was appointed to the United States Naval Academy in 1901. In 1911 he was test pilot for some of the navy's earliest planes, and has followed naval aviation's course continuously through the ensuing years.

The other captains to be promoted: Ferdinand Louis Reichmuth, captain of Washington, D. C., navy yard; home, Palo Alto, Cal.; Isaac Campbell Kidd, commander of battleship Arizona; home, Washington, District of Columbia; Roland Munroe Brainard, on duty at navy department; home, New Orleans; Alexander Sharp, on duty at navy department; home, Washington, D. C.; Aubrey Wray Fitch, commandant of Pensacola, Fla., air station; home, Washington, D. C.; Robert Alfred Theobald, chief of staff, United States fleet; home, New Castle, New Hampshire; Raymond Ames Spruance, commander battleship Mississippi; home, Indianapolis.

Henry Kent Hewitt, chief ordnance inspector, Puget Sound, Wash., ammunition depot; home, Hackensack, N. J.; Felix Xerxes Gyax, director of naval reserves; home, Washington, D. C.; Charles Alfred Dunn, manager industrial department, New York navy yard; home, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Roosevelt also approved an official selection board's choice of 52 commanders as best fitted for promotion to captaincies and 29 as nearly fitted for promotion.

Fifteen officers were approved for retention on the active list and five captains and six commanders were adjudged not physically qualified.

FOR U. S. BENEFITS

Security Bureau Seeking To Contact Them.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(P)—The Social Security Board is calling 528,875 workers to "come and get it."

John J. Corson, director of the old age insurance bureau, said today that efforts were being made to contact three groups whose social security records showed that they are eligible for the initial disbursement of insurance benefits.

The three groups include workers who were paid off with lump sum settlements in the early years of the system and eliminated from future benefits; workers who reached the retirement age of 65 in the past three years but have never filed benefit claims, and workers who will be 65 next year.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—The bond market snapped out of the doldrums today in a burst of advancing rallies, experiencing its liveliest session in nearly two months.

Traders said the sudden action was based on the rising price surge in commodities which, in the last two days, has brought a rush of speculative action.

The day's bond trading started off in the same sleepy manner which characterized the previous weeks, but trading went into spurts at noon and the final bid totaled $9,913,400, face value, compared with $7,665,925 yesterday. It was the biggest day since October 26.

Traders practically ignored U. S. Government bonds, which traded such small orders that their slight advances and declines were virtually meaningless.

Foreign government dollars, on the whole, were lower with Norwegian issues among the few exhibiting strength.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—(P)—The wheat returned to the futures market today after a two-day layover in the sharpest advance in grain prices since war broke out in Europe last September.

December delivery jumped to 10 1/2 cents at the outset, and then extended gains as much as 4 1/4 cents to $1.02 1/4. May and July contracts the latter representing the nearest crop, advanced to $1, and 97 1/2 cents, respectively, both up 5 cents.

It was the first time any wheat contract sold for a dollar since October 1937.

All deliveries of wheat, rye and soybeans and December and May corn were swept into new high prices for the season and longer as broad buying movement developed.

Other wheat markets followed Chicago. Kansas City and Minneapolis finished 4 3/8 to 4 3/4 up. Winnipeg 2 3/4 to 2 7/8 up.

Corn, after a hesitant start, finished with gains of about 2 cents. Increased bookings to arrive here during the advance at times.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—The futures market, still sensitive to news from Washington, advanced today with new hopes of favorable action were kindled on rumors of a meeting of sugar officials.

The domestic list advanced 3 to 4 points on sales of 17,750 tons. A springing of speculative interest helped price forward.

Main stimulus to gains of 3 to 4 points in the world contract seemed to be the threat of broadened war having overtaken Europe. Sales 7,750 tons; Market 1,555; May 1.57.

Buying interest in the raw market peaked on reports that the Philippines of Philippines were held at 3.05 3/8 cents.

Refined moved slowly at 47.0 cents. No. 3 range follow:

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—Erratic price changes accompanied increased activity in the coffee futures today. Turnover appeared stimulated by issuance of several delivery notices.

Santos closed 5 points higher to lower on sales of 12,230 bags; December 62 1/2; March 6 1/8; May 5 5/8; July 6 1/2; September 5 1/2. December 10 to 12 points down on sales of 5,000 bags; December 3.55; New York 3 to 13 off at price of 1,000 bags; December 3.90; May 4.15; September 4.30. (B-Bid.)

The spot market appeared unaffected by March pickup in futures activity. Santos 4 1/2 were quoted 7 1/4 to 7 1/2; Rio 7 1/2 at 5 1/2; Cost and freight 6 1/2 to 6 3/4; Santos Bourbon 3 1/2 and 3 1/4 at 6 1/2 to 7 1/2.

CITY-COUNTY FIGHT IN PROSPECT OVER SEWER CONTROL

Legal Staff of Two Units Will Confer on Issue; $80,000 Withdrawal Is Bone of Contention.

A new disagreement between Fulton county and the city of Atlanta over operation of the metropolitan sewer system yesterday was headed for a conference between legal staffs representing the respective governments with a prospect of a court battle if they fail to reach an amicable adjustment of differences.

William A. Hansell, assistant city chief of construction in charge of sewers, delivered what was considered an ultimatum to the county to replace $80,000 it withdrew from the sewer program or be denied the right to connect county lines to huge city trunk lines.

Hansell pointed out that the city owns in fee simple the right of ways of the trunk lines and that 10 feet on each side of the lines are incorporated in the city, and that the city was in complete control of the whole system.

On the other hand, Harold Sheats, assistant county attorney, contended the county had a contractual agreement for connecting its sewers and that it could enforce the contract in the courts.

Commissioners finally decided to refer the entire matter to the legal staff, and to be governed largely by its recommendations.

WESLEYAN GROUPS TO WEAR COSTUMES

Alumnae Presidents Will Greet Balcony Audience in Stars' Gowns.

Original costumes from "Gone With the Wind" will be worn by Wesleyan alumnae presidents in the balcony of Loew's Grand theater at the premiere tomorrow night. The presidents are Mrs. W. W. Davison, present head of the Atlanta Alumnae Club; Mrs. A. Worth Hobby; Mrs. Augustus M. Roan; Mrs. Edward G. Warner and Mrs. Carroll Griffin, and they will welcome the balcony audience, adding color to that part of the theater.

Mrs. Davison will wear one of Scarlett's gowns and Mrs. Hobby will display Melanie's blue taffeta trimmed in blue satin with small tucks and Irish lace; Mrs. Roan, as Aunt Pitty-Pat, will wear a gown of gray trimmed with light blue velvet. Mrs. Griffin's gown will be Suellen's dotted Swiss with brown velvet trimmings.

Mrs. Warner will wear a costume of the period. It will be remembered that when she was president of the U. P. C. in 1888 Mrs. Warner erected the first historical marker of the War Between the States in Atlanta, located at Peachtree street and Collier road.

Mrs. Harold McKenzie and Mrs. C. J. Haden, who are also among active past presidents of the organization, will not appear in costume as they will be among the audience at the premiere.

FOUR-LANE BY-PASS HIGHWAY PROPOSED

Route Would Take Traffic Around Downtown Area.

Construction of a four-lane by-pass highway routing south-bound traffic from the new Marietta, Bankhead and Adamsville highways around downtown Atlanta to Port McPherson and south side highways was proposed yesterday by Courtland S. Gilbert, secretary of the Fulton County Zoning and Planning Commission. The proposed road would bisect the new Marietta highway, the present Marietta highway, the Adamsville highway, and other traffic arteries on the outskirts of Atlanta and swing traffic from the congested areas of Atlanta.

Construction of a giant truck terminal on the western side of the business district also is proposed.

TEXAS OBSERVATORY FINDS FIVE NEW STARS

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Five new stars belonging to the mysterious group of "white dwarfs" have been discovered by McDonald Observatory, University of Texas officials disclosed today.

Dr. Otto Struve, observatory director, told the officials that the discoveries, which bring the group's known total to 24, may upset current theories as to the generation of energy.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backaches quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 18 miles of kidney tubes flush out the poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Shopper Busier Than Old Santa Gets Nowhere

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Mrs. David W. Aubrey and her 2-year-old son, David Walter, had a hectic Christmas shopping trip today.

First, Mrs. Aubrey forgot to pick up 90 cents change. So, leaving David in charge of a new dress she had just purchased, she sought in vain for the money. Returning to her son, she discovered he had lost the dress. Frantically seeking the dress, she lost David. An hour later police found the child and returned him to his mother, who meanwhile had found the dress but not the money.

RATE BATTLE PLANS TO BE MADE TODAY

Dixie Governors Will Study Co-ordinated Case for Southeast-Southwest.

Plans for presentation of cases of the southeastern and southwestern territories before the Interstate Commerce Commission as one co-ordinated case in the commission's investigation of class rates will be discussed at 9:30 o'clock this morning in a meeting of southern governors and rate officials at the Ansley hotel.

Governor Rivers, who is to preside, was selected as the co-ordinator of the two territories at a recent meeting in Asheville. Walter R. McDonald, chairman of the Georgia Public Service Commission, is in charge of arrangements.

Present, besides the southern governors, will be the steering committee of the southeastern territory's public service commissioners, and the class rate committee of the southwestern public service commissions.

The meeting is expected to set up a structure for co-ordinating testimony before the I. C. C. in the two territories of the Southern Governors' Conference. Arrangement will be discussed for employment of counsel and experts to direct preparation of the cases of both territories on class rates so a properly combined south-wide case may be presented.

CHEMICAL EDITOR WILL TALK AT TECH

Sidney D. Kirkpatrick, editor of "Chemical and Metallurgical Engineering," will speak Monday on new chemical developments before engineering students of Georgia Tech.

Long interested in southern industrial development, he has urged through his magazine the establishment of basic chemical industries in the South such as soap, pulp, paper, paints and varnishes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(P)—The Cincinnati Reds should feel better now. The team which took four straight World Series games from them was the No. 1 team of all sports for 1939 in the opinion of a vast majority of experts balloting in the ninth annual Associated Press poll.

In winning the honor for the fourth straight year the New York Yankees rolled up the huge total of 211½ points, based on three points for first place, two for second and one for third. It was the most one-sided margin in the history of the poll.

The overwhelming choice of the Yankees left second place the real bone of contention among the experts, with four football teams in

THE picture shows Uncle Marmaduke in the grip of a problem that shook him to his innermost depths. The question perplexing him was one of time versus need. He had just come from the drinking emporium across the way... and was wondering if his immediate return for another snort would be criticized by the neighbors. The wooden Indian will testify that, a moment later, Uncle Marmaduke could be heard saying—"Ah-h-h, Lewis 66... that's a real drink!"

So Says Scout Hugh Faust; Sees 'Whale of a Game'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 13.—(P)—Tennessee football scouts reported to Major Bob Neyland today that his Volunteers never had met a team with the manpower of the Southern California Trojans, whom they play in the Rose Bowl New Year's day.

"They've got three big, fast teams to throw at us," said As-

Tennessee is the ninth southern team in those 15 years to go west. And the Vols will meet a team that never has lost a Rose Bowl game—never has been tied.

Southern California has played five games, in all, since the coast classic was inaugurated in 1902, and holds a victory over a Southeastern team—Tulane.

A lot of responsibility rests on the Vols ample shoulders. A victory over Southern Cal would boost the south's average over the coast, would break an unprecedented winning streak for a coast team in the rose-scented competition.

Southern California's Rose Bowl record includes victories over Penn State, 14-3; Pittsburgh twice, 47-14 and 35-0; Tulane, 21-12, and Duke, 7-3.

The south's record in the last 14 games played follows:

1926—Alabama 20, Washington 19.
1927—Alabama 7, Stanford 7.
1929—Georgia Tech 8, California 7.
1931—Alabama 24, Washington State 0.
1932—Southern Cal 21, Tulane 12.
1935—Alabama 29, Stanford 13.
1938—California 13, Alabama 0.
1939—Southern Cal 7, Duke 3.
1940—Tennessee —, Southern Cal —?

The south was vastly superior at the end of the '35 game, and in the last two outings on the coast has come off second best. That pulled the average down.

So a lot depends on what Tennessee does. The coast could even it up at four wins each and one tie. But Tennessee has the chance to make it five and three, which is a horse of another color. And while the Vols have an unscored-on record and a long string of victories to uphold, the Trojans have their bowl streak to defend.

It all adds up as a tremendous battle of powerhouse teams because the chips will be down.

POSSUM HUNTING IS NOT TOUGH?

A pair of husky, bare legs protruded from a training table in the Georgia Tech training quarters yesterday. Only the legs were visible as one entered the door. And it was more than surprising to discover that the attached body belonged to Kenneth Gregory, southern sports editor of the Associated Press. And that Porto, one of the able rubbers, was applying hot towels to both ankles.

"Been arguing with a door?" a visitor asked pleasantly.

"No, doggone it," Gregory responded, "believe it or not I got this possum hunting."

It seems that Gregory had fallen for that old expression—"easy as falling off a log"—and had tried it with startling results. He sprained both ankles.

"Well," Coach F. A. Alexander replied, "it's a good story, Gregory—but what really happened?"

At the last accounting, Gregory was still sticking to his story about possum hunting. But he couldn't get anybody to believe that, not even an old possum hunter like Trainer Claude Bond.

C. Williams, Ga. Lineman, Is Patrolman

Bulldog Tackle Added to Athens Force During Holidays.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 13.—Charlie Williams, 200-pound senior tackle on Georgia's 1939 football team, became Patrolman Williams today.

Charlie, an Athens boy, has been added to the police force here for the Christmas holidays and has been assigned to night duty. He is still attending classes at the University and will finish examinations in the next two days.

The hard-working Bulldog lineman will return to school for the winter quarter, which starts January 2.

Smiley Got All Except Own Vote.

It wasn't hard to find out which member of Georgia's football squad didn't vote for Alternate Captain Smiley Johnson as the "most valuable man on this year's team." It was Smiley Johnson.

The brilliant Johnson, termed by his coaches as the best guard they've seen in action this year, received every vote for the most outstanding Bulldog, with one exception, in an election held by Fitz Lutz. The trainer announced the result today.

Johnson will play for the Grey team in Montgomery's Blue-Gray football game January 1.

Most Valuable Tiger Is Dick McGowen

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 13.—(UP)—"Dynamite" Dick McGowen, Auburn's all-Southeastern halfback who yesterday was named captain of the 1940 team, today was voted the Plainsmen's most valuable player for the 1939 season. McGowen won the honor of most valuable player in a close race with Center Malvern Morgan, senior.

Trojan Scouts Say Tennessee Should Win.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—(P)—Southern California scouts who watched Tennessee play its last two games have made their reports, and the verdict, as Southern California announces it, is that the Volunteers should whip the men of Troy in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, January 1.

George Levin, former Northwestern University quarterback who has been scouting Notre Dame for the Trojans, watched Tennessee clinch the Rose Bowl bid last week by defeating Auburn, 7-0. His charts, diagrams and comments are under scrutiny by Head Coach Howard Jones and his assistants.

He declared it would be a "whale of a game" when the Volunteers and Trojans clash—with Tennessee outmanned in every position.

Crackers Wallop Blue Devils, 47-29

Lauter's Machine Continues Unbeaten; Warren Bulldogs Win From Sears-Roebuck, 53-51.

The high-powered Atlanta Crackers met their sternest opposition of the season last night at Sports Arena, but had little trouble outclassing the heretofore unbeaten Peerless Blue Devils, 47-29. It was the fourth victory in as many starts for Shep Lauter's ball-hawking crew.

The Crackers set a dazzling pace from the start, passing the ball around in mid-season form, and had it not been for the dogged defense of the Blue Devils, the score would have been even more one-sided.

Leading by 26-12 at the half, the Atlanta club held the upper hand all the way, every combination seeming to click.

Rangy Lamar Murphy was again the leading scorer, sinking 11 points, but all of the eight players who performed broke into the scoring column. On defense, the work of Bob Lieb under both baskets was exceptional.

The Crimson Bulldogs (last year's No. 2 Warren team), struck a first-rate opponent in Sears-Roebuck and needed a story-book finish to win, 53-51.

With five seconds to play, Cherry Foster looped a beauty from midcourt to win the game. The former Howard College ace virtually beat the Sears-Roebuck club by himself with a superb performance in the second half. He is a member of the Crackers, but was supposed to be taking things easy because of injuries. Foster bagged 15 points. Red Pittman was high scorer with 19.

The Crackers' next game will be against Fungi-Sol Sunday afternoon at 3:30 at the arena. The Bulldogs will play a preliminary at 2:30.

Coach Congratulated By Senator Russell

Dr. W. O. Payne Replies to Applicant "It Will Be a Long Time Before Opening Exists."

By TOM McRAE.
ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 13.—Wallace Butts today was given assurance he will be offered another contract as coach of the University of Georgia football team. It is possible the contract will be for a "long tenure," probably three years.

In a short speech today at the annual Rotary Club banquet honoring the football team, Dr. W. O. Payne, director of athletics at the university, said he had received an application for a coaching job and wrote the applicant that "it would probably be a long time before there would be an opening on the Georgia staff."

Though he was speaking in a humorous vein, Dr. Payne made it appear obvious that when the board of athletics, with its 17 members, meets in January, the signing of Butts to another contract will be a formality.

SENATOR'S OKEH.
The Bulldog mentor, in his turn to talk, jokingly said he would take Dr. Payne's word for it. To top it off, Senator Richard B. Russell, in the main address, turned and congratulated Butts and wished him success for next season.

Senator Russell did not attempt to make suggestions to cure the economic and political ills of this country nor did he offer any solution to end the second world

Jackets Expect To Be at Midseason Form Against Missouri

TECH SHOULD BE AT SEASON PEAK FOR BOWL GAME

Jackets Face Scrimmage Today; Concentrate on Pass Defense.

By JACK TROY.

If scrimmages don't take a further toll, Georgia Tech bids to be in midseason form for Missouri in Miami's Orange Bowl.

The Jackets finished their schedule considerably below par, physically speaking. They didn't have Billy Gibson, nor Robert Aderhold, nor Jim Wright when they were battling for their share of the Southeastern conference title.

And they didn't have little Johnny Bosch in the entire last half against Georgia.

It is remarkable, looking back, that Tech was able to absorb such losses and go on through. And it is highly encouraging, looking ahead, to know that Gibson, Aderhold, Wright and Bosch all will be in good shape for Missouri—barring further injury.

Gibson and Aderhold had injured knees, Wright had an injured side and Bosch suffered a severe injury to several ribs.

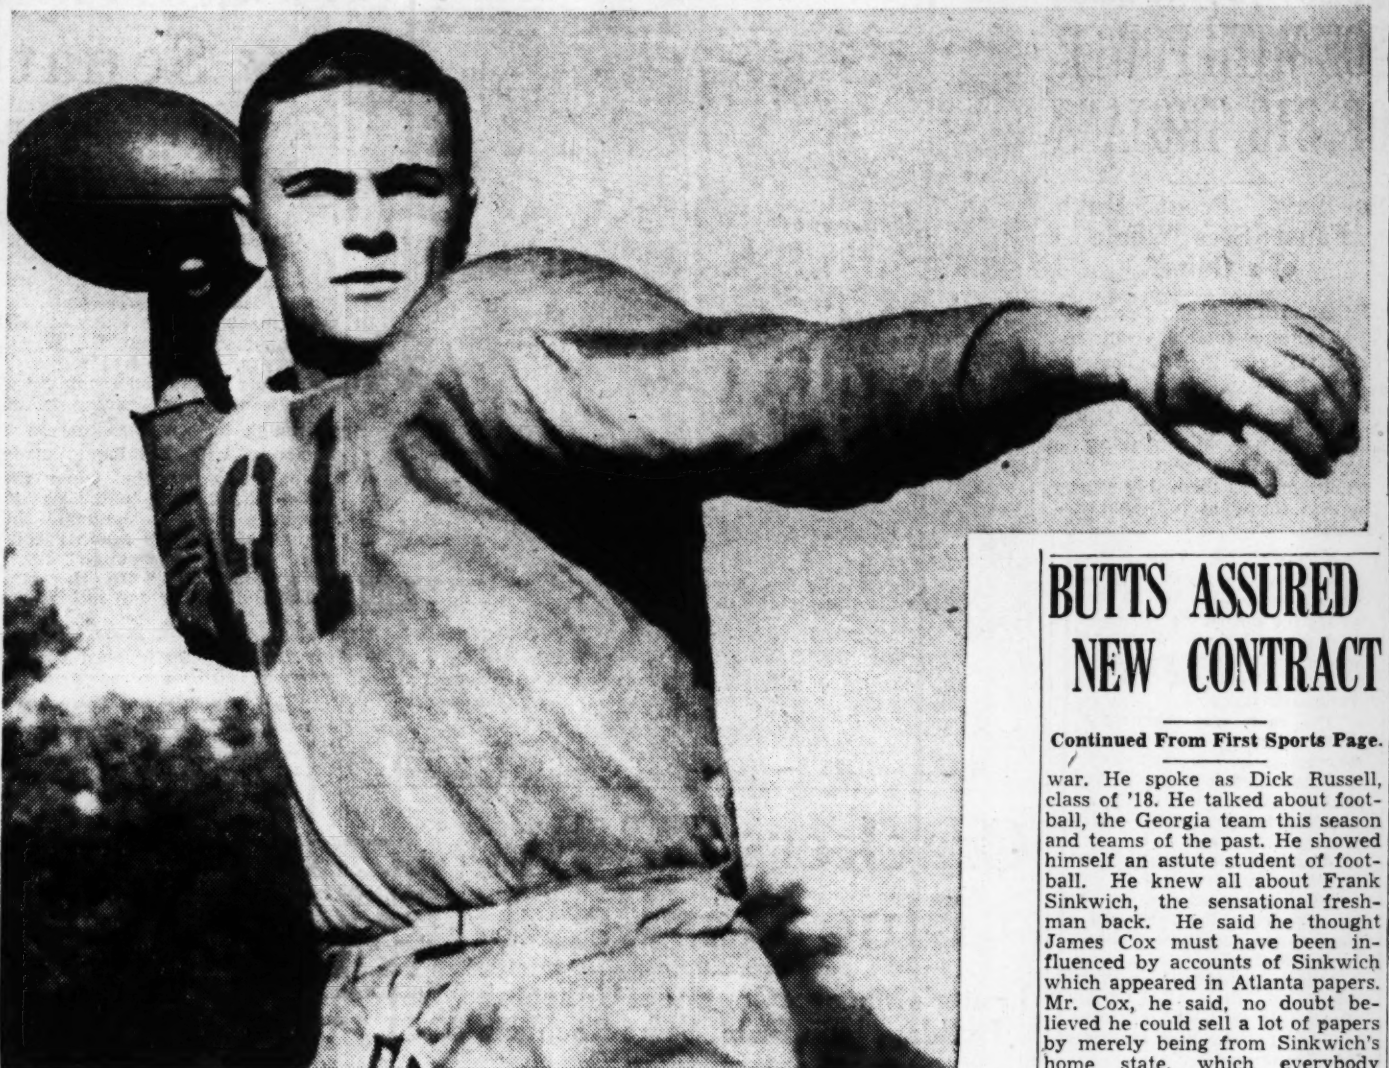

Aderhold still is experiencing a little trouble, but Trainer Claude Bond thinks he will be all right. The quartet is not being worked strenuously this week. All four are training in "sweat" clothes.

Tech gets back to the scrimmage grind today. In fact, Coach Alexander is expected to get in most of the heavy work the rest of this week and the early part of next week.

The Tech-Missouri game promised to be a close one.

HERE'S THE GREAT PAUL CHRISTMAN --- LOOK HIM OVER TECH

Here's the great Paul Christman, Missouri's famous passer, who made a number of the All-America selections. The 200-pound back is also a star plunger and kicker and will be Missouri's main hope against Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl January 1. Christman often has been described as the Dizzy Dean of football.

BUTTS ASSURED NEW CONTRACT

war. He spoke as Dick Russell, class of '18. He talked about football, the Georgia team this season and teams of the past. He showed himself an astute student of football. He knew all about Frank Sinkwich, the sensational freshman back. He said he thought James Cox must have been influenced by accounts of Sinkwich's home state, which everybody knows is Ohio.

He told of an incident at the Tech-Georgia game in 1932 when he was governor. Mrs. Roosevelt was his guest. He had kept his spirit and enthusiasm in hand, but near the end of the game Pat Barron almost got away for Tech and only a great tackle by Buck Chapman, who is from Winder, though the senator modestly did not mention it, saved the day and gave the Bulldogs a 0-0 tie.

ADD EMBARRASSMENT.

When the play was over, in his contentions to help his fellow townsmen make the tackle, Senator Russell found himself with his elbow under the first lady's chin. He said if a candid picture of the scene had been taken, no doubt it would have shown enough to hold him on an assault and battery charge.

Wallace Butts praised the seniors on the team. He pointed out specifically, Captain Vassa Cate, Charlie Williams, and Abner Simonson.

One significant statement in regard to next year's team was:

"If the boys next year show the same spirit the boys this year showed, we'll have a great season." He said this year's freshman team will go down either as best ever or as the biggest flop. He told of the tremendous handicap under which the seniors have played. Notts said, "First they used the Notre Dame practice, then the single wingback and this year this country system we use."

FRESHMEN GUESTS.

The freshmen players were guests as well as the varsity. They look as good in civilian clothes as they do in football togs. They were introduced and all stood up. Morgan Blake asked that Sinkwich stand up again so he could see if the freshman star had horns.

Every one seemed to have a grand time except Cate and Smiley Johnson, the alternate captains.

Both said a word or so and sat down. Much of the time they seemed to be trying to recall some was in which they could have helped the team more. They did not seem satisfied though they have been told by the coaches and the other players that no finer two boys ever captained a Red and Black eleven. Smiley could hardly get up a modest grin when Senator Russell said: "Smiley, you are an all-Southern on my team."

It was quite a banquet the Rotary Club gave.

Parker Hall Called Best Pro Gridman

Ex-Rebel Wins Passing Crown, Is Fifth in Ground Gained, One of Best Punters.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(UP)—The best eleven football players in the fastest football league in the land were named today by the United Press on the 1939 all-professional team.

Green Bay, which won the National Football league championship, had to take a back seat to the vanquished New York Giants, eastern champions, and the Chicago Bears, runners-up to the western title, on the all-star team. The Packers landed only one man—Don Hutson, the greatest pass catcher of the era—on the first team while the Bears and Giants each placed three. The Washington Redskins, runners-up for the eastern crown, placed two men, and the Detroit Lions and Cleveland Rams one each.

PLAYER OF YEAR.

The player of the year was a rookie, 205-pound Parker Hall, Cleveland's triple-threat ace from the University of Mississippi. Hall won the league's passing crown by completing 106 out of 208 passes for 1,227 yards—25 more than Sammy Baugh completed in 1937 when he set the previous record. He was fifth in ground gained, with 458 yards in 120 attempts, and was one of the best punters in the league.

Missouri Students Pan "Dollar Bowl"

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 13.—(AP)—

The Missouri-Georgia Tech football game at Miami New Year's Day was called a "dollar bowl" affair by the Missouri Student, an undergraduate publication.

"The bid (to play in the annual Orange Bowl classic) was not accepted as a result of massed student opinion," the paper said, "but as a deliberate, uncompromising move of the athletic committee to cash in a good football team."

The paper called the game a Memorial stadium-Brewer field house bond retiring party, and stated it is not a "University of Missouri student affair."

It criticized the absence of a proclamation extending the Christmas vacation so students could see the game without missing classes.

Bowling

REYNOLDS HAS 406 SET.

Jack Reynolds, captain of the Norcross team, was shooting at local records as he turned in a fine 406 series in the Gate City league bowling Tuesday evening.

Reynolds turned in games of 135-146 and 123, as he was building up the big series, though his team dropped two games to the Hood Service Station.

In the Gulf Oil bowling league Bob Getzen turned in a fine single game of 135, while Julian Bass and W. N. Gouge were turning in sets of 338 each for the top trio of games.

Other big sets included a 311 by O. W. Blanton, Johnnie Carter 300, Edwards 304, Timmerman 304, Roy Tinsley 311, Christine Bishop 313, M. L. Waller 310, Guy Cantrell 324, L. A. Williams 309, F. H. Kiehl 312 and E. L. Markert 315.

BALL TAKES CAKE.

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 13.—(AP)—Setting the pace from the start, John Ball, of Auburn, established a new record of 14:05.6 today to win Alabama Polytechnic Institute's 10th annual freshman cake race over a 2.7-mile course.

Ben Brown Shocks His 2 Handlers

Starts Training Morning After Fight; Wants Solly Krieger.

By THAD HOIT.

You couldn't blame Sam Sobel for not believing it at first. After all, it always has been a nasty job getting Ben Brown to start training even a week ahead of a fight.

No wonder Sam told Trainer Tommy Concannon he was out of his head when Tommy called him up bright and early Tuesday morning and said, "Sam, you know I never drink and I haven't gone crazy. But Ben Brown is down at the gymnasium training!"

I know he just fought 10 rounds last night, but he is down there."

Sobel pinched himself. After all, he must be dreaming. Well, he'd have to see it to believe it. So Sam hustled himself over to Sports Arena. When the Mumbler stroled in, Ben grinned broadly and said—"don't fail dear, skipper; I told you I had reformed."

Brown was back in the gymnasium again yesterday. His handlers don't know what to make of it. Ben has promised often before to stick to business and keep himself in condition. And now, for the first time, he is showing some indications of fulfilling those promises.

Concannon revealed yesterday that Brown trained only six days for Ken Overlin. "Doesn't that prove to you what a really great fighter he could be if he went into that ring just once at his peak?" he asked.

Tommy said that when Ben came to his corner after the seventh round Monday night, he shook his head and said, "Well,

S. E. C. Cage Coaches Gather Here Sunday

Basketball coaches of the Southeastern conference will go into a huddle here Sunday in a clinic called principally to bring about more uniform officiating in regular season games and in the annual tournament.

Officiating has long been a controversial issue in the conference. Some coaches prefer the open-type game with a liberal interpretation of the rules, while others contend that as long as the rules are in the book they should be called strictly.

Coch Ray Mundorf, of Georgia Tech, spokesman for the group, said two sessions would be held Sunday. He will have his Georgia Tech squad in uniform for demonstrations in the afternoon. He said he expected a good representation of conference coaches, as well as officials.

I'm shot. I've got him beat now, but I'm through."

"Oke, son," replied Concannon. "You'll have to go it on sheer gameness from here out."

Ben proved his courage by sticking it out, but Overlin won the last two rounds and earned a draw he never could have gained against a Ben Brown in condition.

Looking back over Brown's record one finds that the few times he was licked were directly attributed to his improper condition. He made Solly Krieger look silly at Miami, but faded in the late rounds and suffered the first knockdown of his career. He outclassed Gus Lesnevich for seven heats and folded up near the close. His defeat by Overlin recently at Miami was due to his own failure to get into shape for the 10-round grind.

Ben admits he has been foolish, that he probably would be world champion today if he had observed the rules.

There is, of course, still time. Brown is only 22. He is the hard-core fighter.

a tight race for the honor. Iowa, with 37½ points, including 7½ first-place votes, finally won the runnerup position, with Southern California third with 34, Tennessee fourth with 33, and Cornell fifth with 26.

As a sport, football led the list in nominations, with nine college or professional teams named. Basketball, with the University of Oregon topping the list, drew six votes, baseball four and crew three.

The Yankees drew 61 of the 79 votes for undisputed first place, with one expert splitting his ballot between them and the Hawkeyes. Thirteen others placed the Yankees second, and only four voters failed to mention them.

The voting:

Team and Sport. Firsts Pts.
New York Yankees, baseball 61½ 7½
U. of Iowa, football 3 34
Southern California, football 3 34
Tennessee, football 3 33
Cornell, football 2 26
Texas A. & M., football 1 18
U. of Oregon, basketball 1 12
Cincinnati Reds, baseball 1 9
Boston Bruins, hockey 1 8
Southern California, track 1 7

Yale, football 1 6
Long Island U., basketball 1 5
Denver Nuggets, basketball 1 5
Harvard crew 1 5
Ohio State U., basketball 1 4
California U., crew 1 4
Three points each—Penn State, football (1 first); St. Louis Cardinals, baseball; Brooklyn Dodgers, baseball; United States Internationalists, polo.

Two points—Oklahoma A. & M., wrestling.

One point—Tulane, football; Washington U., crew; Marquette U., basketball; Frankfurt (Ind.) high school, basketball.

Picard, Nelson Are Favorites + RADIO PROGRAMS +

NEELY ANNOUNCES BANK POSTS FILLED

Bob, Dick Garlington Lose Augusta Match
AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 13.—(P) "Gummy" Harrison and Gus Navatny have a score card for a souvenir of a victory on the Augusta national golf course the other day. The pair whipped their opponents, one up.

For 18 holes, the score may not seem so decisive. But the opposing team consisted of Dick Garlington, of Atlanta, and Bobby Jones, abdicated emperor of golfdom and the man who help design the course.

GULDAHL, METZ, 'JUG' MSPADEN IN CRACK FIELD

Co-Favorites Seek Vardon Trophy; 220 Golfers To Compete.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13.—(P) Either Henry Picard or Byron Nelson will emerge from the $10,000 Miami open as the "man-of-the-year" in professional golf, but there was no assurance today that either of the leaders would win 1939's final tournament.

As a record field of 220 wound up practice for the start of play tomorrow, Picard and Nelson were installed as co-favorites with four others who are as hot as the proverbial firecracker.

The boys who like to wager a shekel or two on the outcome listed both Picard and Nelson at 8 to 1, with Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Ralph Gulda, Dick Metz and Jimmy Thomson at the same figure.

Both the P. G. A. Harry Vardon trophy emblematic of professional supremacy and the money-winning leadership are at stake in the tournament, with Picard now at the head of the class in each division.

Picard, the Professional Golfers Association champion, is five points ahead of Nelson, the national open king, with 459 to 454, in the Vardon competition. To beat out Picard, Nelson must either win the tournament or finish several places ahead of his rival.

The money-winning scramble, however, is a four-centered affair. Picard is at the top with $10,202, trailed by Ralph Gulda at $9,377, Metz at $8,600 and Nelson at $8,386. Since the top prize in this tournament is $2,500, with $1,250 for the runner-up and $1,000 for the third, it's easy to see that anything might happen among these four.

The pipe-smoking McSpaden, Miami Open winner with a five-under-par 275 last year, scorched the course with a practice 64 the other day and is at the top of his game again. Thomson shot the next two best practice scores, a pair of 65s, and Metz carded a 6.

three, and Mr. Dan, aged one and one-half, were playing when suddenly Miss Janice took Mr. Dan's hand and said, "Come on, Clark Gable!" ... Everybody's doing it, doing it, so Ferdinand may as well join in the spirit of the occasion and remind you that today, at 12:15, in the Louis Dinkler room, Ansley, Ann Rutherford (G. W. T. W. star), will appear in person. ... The occasion is ladies' day at the weekly Jaycee luncheon. ... Miss Virginia, the bravest little lady in town, will be able to see high lights of the big "Gone" show. ... That man was her again today ... and how I wish he'd go away. ... Julian Boehm is making people grab for their watches whenever he appears in their midst. ... For instance, he told Ferdinand to hold a small sponge in each outstretched hand. ... Then, without any warning, it was most disconcerting to discover that both sponges were in one hand. ... Dr. Louie D. Newton writes in behalf of Atlanta's annual Christmas pageant—the Divine Promise—which will be staged at the city auditorium this Sunday under the direction of Eugene J. Bergmann. ... Ray Howe (Charlotte, N. C. News) writes that Georgia Tech made a fine impression on Jack Helms and he probably will go to school at the Flats. ... Helms is an all-state end. ... It certainly will mean a great deal morally as well as physically to the Jackets for Billy Gibson and Robert (Butch) Aderhold to be back in starting positions against Missouri on January 1 in Miami's Orange Bowl. ... Tech's season is even greater when it is considered that the Jackets rambled on to an undefeated conference season minus the services of these aces in the last three games. ... Takes spirited, resourceful play to overcome such losses on a rather small squad. ... Josh Chunn, who reports doings of Atlanta colored colleges, was so excited over Morris Brown's win over Virginia State in the Peach Blossom classic that he started his story in this fashion—"Inspired by four seniors, who was playing their last game for Alma Mater in English, Rooker, Captain Brown and Walker, who ended their playing career in a blaze of glory, a fighting Morris Brown College eleven that critics said did not have a ghost of a chance to defeat the two-year undefeated Virginia Trojans, who had not been defeated in the past two years losing only one game in three years, won an upset victory that will shake the colored gridiron world when they decisively turned back the Ettrick, Va., football eleven in an amazing upset, etc."

TECH SHOULD BE AT SEASON PEAK

ies to be the most colorful and spectacular of all the bowl games. Tech had no chance to scout Missouri and Missouri had no chance to scout Tech.

Scout Roy McArthur has diagrammed about 36 plays he thinks Missouri might use and Tech is working against these Missouri employs single wing and balanced line, occasionally dropping into double wing. A lot of attention is being paid to pass defense on account of Missouri's Paul Christian having made All-America largely on the strength of his great passing.

It would be interesting to know what steps Missouri is taking to prepare against the Tech attack.

BROKEN SIGNALS. For this much is known: Several times during the season, scouts crossed out Tech plays and reported that the Jackets had gained on a "broken signal." Scouts refused to believe that Tech actually had such plays as when the ball is faked to a couple of backs and then retained by the halfback who hides it on his hip and walks into the line.

It's probably just as well Missouri didn't scout the Jackets. For it is difficult to get down on paper just exactly what they do. Only a few basic formations seem logical to a scout.

And, furthermore, Tech is installing some more new plays. It would have been a waste of time for Missouri scouts—even had they known they were going to meet the Rambling Wreck on New Year's Day.

Missouri Has Only One Minor Casualty.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 13.—(P) Bud Orr, one of Missouri's "car-bon copy" twins who play end, reported this morning with a bruised shoulder which was diagnosed as "not very serious." He was the only casualty in yesterday's three-hour scrimmage in preparation for the Orange Bowl game with Georgia Tech New Year's Day at Miami, Fla.

The scrimmage consisted solely of work on running plays. Coach Don Faurot said "we'll work on passing tomorrow."

Don Faurot definitely will have Blaine Currence and Clay Cooper at Miami for the Orange Bowl game January 1 against Georgia Tech.

Currence, football end, plays center in basketball and Cooper, a halfback, plays forward.

STRANGE DEATH

The strange death of Major Stede Bonnet, the first pirate to make his victims "walk the plank," and the adventure of Cliff Downton, of Louisville, Ky., whose life was saved by a dog that had been killed two weeks before, will be dramatized on the "Strange As It Seems" program, heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight. Alois Havrilla is master of ceremonies.

When Bonnet was finally captured, after a long career as a pirate, he was sentenced to death in one of the most unusual judicial pronouncements ever uttered.

BING CROSBY—Variety is the word for the talent assemblage on the "Music Hall" when Bing Crosby doffs his wellworn chapeau to Efrim Zimbalist, concert violinist; Jack Holt, star of action pictures; and Una Merkel, film actress, to be heard over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight.

Of course, Robin Burns will be on the precincts for the broadcast as will the Music Mads and John Scott Trotter's Orchestra.

Program will include:

"Sing, It's Wonderful."
"Girl of My Dreams."
"Yodelin' Jive."
"To Your Sweetheart, Aloha."
"Back Home in Indiana."
"March of the Toys," from "Babes in Toyland."

GOOD NEWS—A triumvirate of Hollywood stars, including the lovely Mary Martin, Walter Connolly and Allan Jones, will reenact musical and dramatic scenes from the motion picture, "The Great Victor Herbert," on "Good News of 1940," to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight. This portion of the broadcast will emanate from New York where Miss Martin and Mr. Jones are making a personal appearance in connection with the picture.

From Hollywood, Edward Arnold, master-of-ceremonies, will present the other Good News personalities: Fanny Brice and Hanley Stafford as Baby Snooks and Daddy, Connie Boswell, Warren Hull and Meredith Willson's Orchestra.

Program will include:

"I Can Give You Anything but Love."
The Concert Hall feature of the week, one of a series inaugurated by Willson as an inspiration to modern-day composers will be an American Barcarole, expressly written for Good News by Harry Warren.

ASK-IT BASKET—Jim McWilliams will ask questions about the American Indians, mountains and rivers and other subjects on the "Ask-It Basket" program, to be heard over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight.

Contestants will be called upon to sing, whistle, and emoté during the hilarious "Anything Can Happen" basket.

Major Scott Named Field Trial President

Major Tammend Scott, Southern law president, has been named president of the National Amateur Field Trial Association for the third region which embraces Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, it was learned yesterday.

Several setter fanciers, including Richard Tufts, of Pinehurst, and Colonel McNaughton and Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, wired Scott—"Don't fail to accept regional appointment, as the setter people need you."

Scott wired back—"Have full appreciation of setter needs—accept."

Federal Reserve Board Names Four Branch Unit Directors.

Frank H. Neely, chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, yesterday announced that appointments of four branch bank directors had been made by the board.

General John C. Persons, president of the First National Bank, of Birmingham, was reappointed a director of the Birmingham branch. B. C. Teed, first vice president of the First National Bank, Palm Beach, Fla., was appointed a director of the Jacksonville branch.

He succeeds George J. Aven, president of the Florida National Bank, Jacksonville. F. M. Farris, president of the Third National Bank, Nashville, Tenn., was reappointed a director of the Nashville branch.

E. E. Soulier, executive vice president of the First National Bank, of Lafayette, La., was reappointed a director of the New Orleans branch.

Appointments are for three years, and will be effective January 1, Neely said.

The directors reappointed the following managing directors of the branches to serve during 1940: Birmingham, P. L. T. Beavers, Jacksonville, George S. Vardeman Jr., Nashville, Joel B. Fort Jr., and New Orleans, L. M. Clark.

Responding to the appeal of the English minister of agriculture to "grow more food," farmers of Essex will plow an additional 40,000 acres.

SMITHIES PREP FOR HOLIDAY GO

Tech High's football team broke a 11-day vacation period Wednesday afternoon in the first practice for a New Year's charity game with Jacksonville's All-Stars at Jacksonville, Fla.

Light work was on the opening program and will be the schedule until probably Tuesday of next week when the only rough scrimmage of the late practice sessions will be held.

est two-handed puncher in his division. He can take a punch, he has speed and world's of courage. What else does a great fighter need, save a willingness to keep himself fit? With all his natural ability, Ben Brown will have committed an unpardonable sin if he fails to take advantage of his opportunity. Little wonder there was great rejoicing when he was discovered in the gymnasium Tuesday morning.

Ben's immediate aim is a return bout with Solly Krieger, only man ever to knock him out. That bout was stopped with nine seconds to go in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. At the time, Ben was on his feet—punching.

After Krieger, Ben hopes to add a bit of weight and invade the light-heavyweight class. "He can molder dem big guys," says Sobel.

Walter Asks Faith To Marry Him Just As Carl Drops In—She Doesn't Answer

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.
INSTALLMENT XXXI.

"Good to see you back, Faith. Will you come into my office?" And when she was sitting beside him in the familiar office, she told him about Gretchen and Philip.

"And now you're alone?" He looked at her with sympathy, knowing that she would continue to be alone, that she would have to give up the apartment she shared with Gretchen for a small, less expensive place. "Have dinner with Sue and me tonight at my place, Faith." Then he said, "I suppose I've got to tell Sue about her mother. I talked with her attorney yesterday and nothing has changed. I could contest the divorce, of course, but that would be a foolish, useless gesture. I'm still in the dark."

She bit into her lip to keep from telling him the truth and Astrid's lies. "Where is Carl?" she wanted to ask. "Where did he go after that night in Florida?"

"You'll come tonight, Faith? Sue said she meant to call you."

"Yes, I'll come, Walter. And thank you."

The day passed quickly, punctuated by luncheon with Katharine and strained with Miss Benedict's obvious disappointment that her position as Walter's secretary was not to be a permanent one. The telephone screamed throughout the day, bringing crisp business voices, demanding and questioning. Would she never answer the urgent ringing to hear the deep, precise tones of Carl's voice ask for her? The thought of Philip and Gretchen came to mind frequently. And all her fine young dreams had been reduced to dreaming of some one else's happiness, of a wedding in Paris and a honeymoon in Italy.

Coming into the dark silent apartment to change from her business clothes to the black chiffon dinner frock deepened her depression. No more would Gretchen welcome her home. No more would Gretchen's lovely red head rest against the pillow on the love-seat. Faith sighed, biting back tears when she wanted to scream, when she wanted to beat her hands against doors that had been closed against her. Get out of it, a stern voice prompted! Save yourself and Carl and Walter! Oh, but how? How?

Not long later the grim-faced butler admitted her into the Edmonds apartment and Sue, wearing a dinner frock of the deep warm shade of blue that was as becoming to her as it was to her mother, greeted her.

"I'm so glad you could come tonight, Faith. Daddy isn't home yet. And I'm sorry I can't stay in tonight but I promised before I knew you were coming. . . . Daddy told me about Gretchen. I think it's wonderful!"

Faith envied her brightness. "Oh, I am!" Careful now, she thought. Don't confide in Faith even though she is her mother and trust her. And try not to show that every nerve is taut. And don't glance in the direction of your room fearful lest some one go in and discover that you have a bag packed. Elopement with Michael tomorrow. . . . Frightened, happy, wondering. Tomorrow her father would receive a telegram. There was nothing he could do then! Marriad, Michael's wife. . . . Her heart sprang into her throat. It would be all right. Everything would be fine. Michael had said, "Don't worry, honey. This is the best way. We'll tell them when it's over." And she had agreed, knowing that to oppose him would be to lose him again.

Sitting again at the perfectly appointed table lighted by the tall silver candelabra, each tried to hide his or her tenseness. Sue ate without appetite and there was nervousness in her too frequent laughter. Walter seemed calm and resigned and Faith tried her gallant best to be natural.

Before Sue left (to call on Jane) she went to Walter and put her arm around him and kissed him. She mustn't cry, she thought. But was it fair to do this to him now when her mother was away? "I'll call you tomorrow, Sue," Walter said.

"As you always do, Daddy." Her decision faltered and her fears mounted. What would he say? What would he do? Would he hate her, disown her, turn her away?

Faith said, "Good night, Sue." Sue stood in the doorway looking from one to the other. Her love for her father seemed to choke her then. And Faith. . . . What of Faith? Her father or Carl? Too absorbed in her own thoughts and plans, she had given them little thought. Was Faith in love with Carl or with her father? Sue thought, "I'm acting queerly. They'll begin to suspect something if I don't go. . . ."

Christmas Money for Juvenile Artists

The girls are winning again! For the past three days it's been nip and tuck as to whether the boys or the girls were capturing the most prizes in the Kris Kringle coloring contest. But, in the awards announced today, the girls leaped to the front again by capturing all the three prizes.

If you haven't entered yet, do so now. It's lots of fun and The Constitution is awarding three one dollar prizes daily.

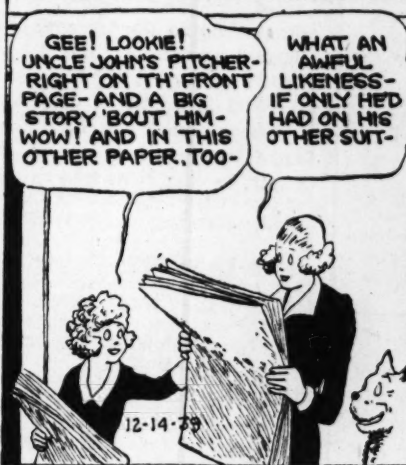

Here are the rules:
1.—The contest is open to any boy or girl of grammar school age.
2.—Color the drawing of the Kris Kringle Kids which appear accompanying these rules. You may use either crayons or water colors and may decorate the cartoon in any manner you choose.
3.—After you have colored the drawing, print your name, age, address and the school you attend on a sheet of paper and attach it to the cartoon with paste.
4.—Mail or deliver today's drawing to the Contest Editor, Atlanta Constitution, before midnight tonight.
5.—The Constitution will award three prizes a day for 12 days for the best entries. Originality and neatness will be considered in the judging. Names of today's winners will be published Saturday.

SEVENTY-FIVE years ago the spot on which Atlanta stands today was swept by the torch of war. A city then of about 10,000 souls, it lay in smoking ruins.

Today Atlanta—majestic — supreme — cultured—peopled with more than 300,000 proud and loyal citizens—is among the South's most beautiful and progressive cities.

What has brought this marvelous change—this wonderful growth—a growth unpredictable to the remnants of brave Confederates and the reunited members of their families, as they set about the tedious task of reconstruction in the dark days of 1864?

The answer can be found in the indomitable will and spirit of those who returned at the end of a four-year struggle and found, as Henry Grady said twenty years later, "their homes in ruins, their farms devastated, their slaves free, their stock killed, their barns empty, their trade destroyed, their money worthless, their social system swept away; their very traditions gone."

Atlanta—the city of homes and progress—has been builded by the lofty courage—the patience and heroism of women—the never-say-die spirit of brave men who sought this city to rebuild their losses from a war in which their cause was lost.

They were men and women with hearts of gold. Gradually at first—but rapidly later—Atlanta began to assume her place as one of the South's leading cities. Today she is an acknowledged leader. Our hats are off to the men and women of the last twoscore years of 1800. The examples they set in thrift, in energy, in progress, in culture, in religion, have left their impress on our citizens of 1900. And our people have kept the faith. Today Atlanta teems with kind, courteous and progressive people. The "Atlanta Spirit," so often spoken of years ago, seems again awakened. The city moves forward at a marvelous rate, and is to be congratulated on the world-wide event which is now taking place here.

Atlanta Realtors signed below take this occasion to pay tribute to the remarkable work of MARGARET MITCHELL in presenting to the world her book, "GONE WITH THE WIND," which is not only a record of the trials and courage of our Confederate soldiers, but has given to Atlanta favorable and outstanding recognition throughout the world.

TO OLD TIMERS

We have on display in our showroom windows an old four-passenger sleigh, formerly owned by ex-Governor Rufus Bulloch, the Carpet Bag ruler of Georgia—1868-1870.

A few old residents may remember the old whiskered Governor, riding around town in this fine old sleigh, to the jingle of bells!

We also have on display a fine old Victoria, made in 1882 for Governor Henry McDaniel, built by John M. Smith, the founder of our business.

We cordially invite you to bring the children and see these fine old vehicles.
